WAGES CUT UNDER SHOE CODE, NRA BOARD SAYS

Labor Advisory Group Declares Instrument Has Operated Also to Create More Unemployment in Industry.

ASSERTS AUTHORITY FAILED IN FUNCTION

Holds That Population Differentials Cause Factory Migrations and Are Unsound—Urges That They Be Abolished.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—A report condemning the code for the shoe and shoe industry and upholding every contention of labor—that the code has operated to force wages lower and create more unemployment—was made public today by the Labor Advisory Board of NRA.

The report, in its condemnation of the code and the code authority, dominated by large shoe manufacturers, is similar to the recent study of the automobile industry issued by the NRA. Both reports find labor taking an ever-declining share of industrial revenue.

Today's report by the Labor Advisory Board, signed by the Rev. Francis J. Haas of the board, is based on testimony given at a recent public hearing which was held as the result of a petition sent by a committee of NRA officials. That committee called attention to the need for drastic revision of the code. The testimony at the public hearings gave a "clear picture of the acute situation in the shoe and shoe industry," the Labor Advisory Board says.

Weekly Earnings Drop.

It has shown, said the board, the study of the shoe industry, "by the method of personal investigation the code authority's failure to enforce and effectuate the labor provisions of the code. It shows that there are still thousands of unemployed shoe workers; that the weekly earnings of those employed have dropped considerably; and because of the code authority's failure to carry out its functions as an administrative body, the workers are subjected to losses, restitution of which is rightfully theirs.

"Industry has failed throughout its presentation to refute the facts stated by labor," the board added.

The board rejected the statistics presented by manufacturers to show that hourly earnings had increased. To show this, according to the board, the shoe manufacturers showed in their tables office work and engineers as well as factory workers.

Proposed Scale.

The board proposes three minimum weekly wages as follows: Unskilled workers, $21; semi-skilled workers, $23; and skilled workers, $25.

According to the board, which has a statement on figures provided by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the average weekly wage of shoe workers in October, 1933, at the code went into effect, was $19.61; and in October, 1934, the average weekly wage was $18.41.

Actual yearly earnings of shoe workers, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, are $803.90. These figures are indicative of the effect of the present labor provisions of the code," says the board.

"We have shown through our presentation a general picture of the shoe industry which is a picture of a recent living wage."

Migration from cities and larger towns to small towns, "with a view to more effective exploitation of the labor force," the board also attributed to the code, which allows a lower wage scale in communities with a population under 50,000.

The board found that this provision worked an immediate hardship on approximately 33,000 shoe workers. In many instances, this lower wage scale was applied to industrial suburbs in the Massachusetts area, wholly without justification so far as living costs were concerned, the board held.

Assaults Differentials.

The continued tendency of employers who follow suit of other manufacturers in moving their plants from relatively high wage areas in order to take advantage of lower wage areas.

HITLER INDICATES GERMANY IS GOING IN CHEAP CAR FIELD

Says Auto Has Been Built With "Least Imaginable" Fuel Consumption.

BERLIN, Feb. 14.—Reichsführer Hitler today announced the construction of a German automobile with the "least imaginable" fuel consumption.

Indication that the Reich may soon seek to export large numbers of low-priced cars was given by Hitler and Robert Altmers, president of the Automobile Industry's League. Both men spoke at the opening of the International Automobile Show.

Both Hitler and Altmers emphasized that Germany was rapidly making itself independent of the world as regards rubber and fuel, both benzine and crude oil. Altmers said the Diesel motor soon would be widely used in ordinary cars.

Harriman Urges That Workers Bear One-Third Payroll Tax for Job Insurance.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Several changes in the administration of the social security program were recommended to the Senate Finance Committee today by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Henry I. Harriman, president of the chamber, urged that the payroll tax proposed for unemployment insurance should be levied against workers.

He also recommended: Exemption of agricultural workers, domestic servants and casuals from both unemployment insurance and old age pensions; continuance of existing company plans for pensions and insurance; and rejection of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau's recent recommendation for speeding up the payroll tax for old-age insurance.

BARNS A. W. CUTTEN FROM GRAIN PITS FOR TWO YEARS

Futures Commission Finds Him Guilty of Attempting to Manipulate Prices on Chicago Board.

IT IS ALLEGED HE HID TRANSACTIONS

Carried 35 Accounts in Names of Relatives and Associates—Made No Reports in 1930.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago trader, today was prohibited by the Grain Futures Commission from trading on any grain market for a period of two years. The members of the Grain Futures Commission are Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, Secretary of Commerce Roper and Attorney-General Cummings.

The commission found Cutten guilty of violating the Grain Futures Act "by attempting to manipulate prices by concealing his transactions on the Chicago Board of Trade."

The decision was reached Feb. 12, but was not announced by the commission until Cutten had been notified of the findings.

The commission found that Cutten had transacted his business through eight commission firms, split his trading into 35 accounts and carried some of them in the names of relatives and associates for the purpose of concealment.

It also found that during 1930 he made no reports of his transactions, as required under the Grain Futures Act, although he controlled in excess of 500,000 bushels of wheat on 130 days during the year.

Concealment Alleged.

"During the year 1931," the commission said, "respondent (Cutten) made reports irregularly to the Grain Futures Administration, none of which was true or correct as a statement of his net position on the market on the day covered by such report."

On 110 days in 1931 the commission said Cutten traded in wheat futures in excess of 500,000 bushels, and that on "a great many days" he made no reports.

Cutten's purpose "in concealing his position in the market was to manipulate the price of grain and thereby to make large profits," the commission said. "He systematically allocated purchases and sales of wheat futures to the various accounts in order to keep them under 500,000 bushels, and did this to avoid detection."

Appeal to Court Considered.

The two-year disbarment is effective March 1 and administration officials said the action would definitely break Cutten's activities in the market since it would be difficult for him to resume operations in 1937.

It was understood Cutten's attorneys would appeal the case to the Circuit Court. Such action would provide the first test of the Grain Futures Act, passed in 1922.

A case against Thomas M. Howell, another Chicago grain trader, for similar operation on the long side of the market is pending before the commission.

MISSOURI HOUSE PERFECTS WEEK-END MILEAGE BILL

Measure Would Limit Total Expense Per Trip to Not Less Than $5 or More Than $15.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 14.—The House, by an overwhelming vote, ordered the perfection today of a bill which would give each member an allowance of 5 cents a mile for week-end trips to his home during the legislative session. The total allowance per trip must not be less than $5 or more than $15. At present, members of the Legislature are allowed mileage for only one complete trip—at the beginning and end of the session.

The measure was sponsored by Representative Catron, Democrat, of Lafayette County. Only a handful of members, mostly Republicans, opposed the measure. One Democrat, Representative Browning of St. Clair County, voted against it. He said "Members of the Legislature are getting all they are worth now."

Some doubt is expressed as to whether the bill is constitutional. Representative Whitaker of Hickory County said: "If I thought this measure was anything else but a joke, I would vote against it."

More Births in Families on Relief.

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 14.—Sixty-four per cent of the births in Dallas last year were to large families, according to Government relief rolls. Dr. J. H. Stephenson, hospital superintendent, reported to the City-County Hospital Board yesterday.

MRS. ROOSEVELT ON LONG AND TOWNSEND PROPOSALS

Says "You'll Be Stumped to Outline Proposal to Give Jobs to All Who Want Them."

By the Associated Press.

ITHACA, N. Y., Feb. 14.—Whether you are "a Mr. Townsend, with an old age plan or a Senator Huey Long with a share-the-wealth program," said Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt, in an address on Cornell Farm and Home week program today, "you are going to be stumped when it comes to outlining a program of how to give every human being a job who wants it."

"My generation has a responsibility for today's youth which it cannot escape," she said. "We have undertaken to say that individuals shall neither starve or freeze. But all of us are doing a rather poor job of it. All over the country today, while people are not actually starving, there are people and children growing up improperly fed, improperly housed and improperly clothed. Families are moving constantly because there is no stability or security in life. Children are struggling through these things and looking for work and there is no work."

"Now somewhere there is the explanation of the reason for this, and we have got to find it."

Secretary Roper, who accompanied Wood and H. P. Kendall, chairman of the Commerce Department's advisory and planning council, to the White House, explained the committee would act only in an advisory capacity, to be consulted by the President and whatever administrative organization is established by him to allocate the works fund.

Hauptmann Breaks Down And Weeps Far Into Night

Takes Verdict Stoically But Bursts Into Sobs After He Is Returned to His Cell.

By the Associated Press.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 14.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, manacled and listening to the verdict, was silent, but led back to his cell in the Hunterdon County jail, he broke down and wept.

Hearing the order that he be put to death as the killer of the Lindbergh baby, the Bronx carpenter spoke only to comfort his wife.

"It's all right, Annie," he said. "But in the privacy of prison which has been his lot for five months, he mumbled unintelligible German phrases."

Hauptmann threw himself face down on his bunk last night, after he had been led from the court, and wept. Far into the night he sat on the edge of the bunk, head in hands, still sobbing.

Says Nothing to Guard.

His guards, who had been forbidden to talk to him during the day-and-night watch preceding the verdict, were freed from the order, but he had nothing to say to them.

His iron nerve broke only after he had left the courtroom where his wife still sat, so motionless that she appeared afraid to move. He almost had to be dragged from the room, so far around had he twisted for a last glimpse of her.

Hauptmann early today fell into fitful sleep.

At the customary breakfast hour he was awakened by his guards and ate oatmeal, bread and coffee. Then he lay back again, silent and depressed.

Brought into the courtroom under the glare of five big lights last night.

Hauptmann showed clearly the strain he had been under. His face was chalk-colored and deeply etched.

But he was one of the calmest persons in the room, noticeably calmer than the jurors who had found it their duty to find him guilty.

When the foreman stuttered out the verdict, Hauptmann swayed slightly. That was his only sign of recognition. When the jurors were polled, one by one, he apparently heard none of them.

Twice he turned to nod to his wife.

Then came the sentence, Hauptmann's features still firm as steel.

"It's all right," he said.

Hauptmann is 36 years old, and his birthplace was Kamen, Saxony, Germany.

He went through a few grades at ordinary schools and then a trade school. He went to work at the age of 12, earning only a few marks weekly.

At the age of 17 he became a soldier in the German army. He was gassed. Between the years 1918 and 1923 he found little work. He was in trouble with police on more than one occasion, and was convicted of a burglary. He walked out of a jail another time before he could be tried.

Hauptmann entered the United States illegally after two previous attempts had failed. This was in 1923. He worked in a dishwashing, mechanic, deer's helper, and finally at his trade of carpenter.

He married Anna Schoeffler, a waitress, Oct. 10, 1925.

WIFE AND LAWYERS VISIT HAUPTMANN IN HIS CELL

Sheriff Permits 35-Minute Talk After at First Refusing Admittance.

By the Associated Press.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 14.—Mrs. Anna Hauptmann visited her husband in his cell today, although earlier in the day Sheriff John H. Curtiss had denied her request for a visit, saying "She'll have to make her arrangements with the State prison at Trenton from now on." The Sheriff withdrew his denial on request of Hauptmann's counsel.

Mrs. Hauptmann spent 35 minutes in the jail and emerged dried-eyed. Edward J. Reilly, chief defense counsel, and two of his associates, Lloyd Fisher and Egbert Rosecrans, were present during the visit, and said later, "both bore up very well."

Mrs. Hauptmann said nothing as she left the jail.

Quota Full, France Bars U.S. Salmon

PARIS, Feb. 14.—Hundreds of tons of frozen salmon from the United States, waiting on French docks and on ships bound for France, will be refused entry because the quota is filled, it was said today. The Government doubled its salmon quota over last year but importers placed more orders than the Government will permit to enter.

HAUPTMANN ATTORNEYS PREPARING TO APPEAL

He Is Under Sentence to Die Week of March 18 for Murder of Lindbergh's Baby—Breaks Down in Cell.

JURY DELIBERATES FOR ELEVEN HOURS

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 14.—Bruno Richard Hauptmann, convicted of the murder of the Lindbergh baby and sentenced to death, will carry his case through high courts in a fight which may last months.

He was sentenced by Justice Thomas W. Trenchard last night to "suffer death" during the week of March 18.

Hauptmann will be taken to the death house at the Trenton State prison Saturday.

While Hauptmann wept in his cell, Edward J. Reilly, chief of defense staff, said an appeal would be carried to the United States Supreme Court if necessary.

Procedure in New Jersey.

The first tribunal expected to hear the plea, the State Court of Errors and Appeals, meets for its next term late in May. The Court of Pardons will not hear it before October.

The jurors who convicted him showed more emotion than did Hauptmann as he stood before them at 10:45 p. m.

With a look of affection, the 36-year-old prisoner turned to his wife and said: "It's all right, Annie."

Back in his cell, out of the gaze of the curious, Hauptmann burst into tears.

Jury Foreman Stutters.

With stuttering words, Foreman Charles Walton announced the verdict. He who had listened to the evidence for more than six weeks even twisted the defendant's name in his fight to remain calm.

"Guilty," he announced. "We find the defendant, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, guilty of murder in the first degree."

A piece of paper rustled in his trembling hands. He glanced at the paper with unseeing eyes in pretense of consulting it.

A few strides away stood Hauptmann, jaw set, face so pale and haggard it was ghastly in the electric light. Sharply erect, he tottered slightly as he heard the foreman's words.

A few minutes later Justice Trenchard quietly imposed sentence.

Verdict on Thirty-Second Day.

So ended the long Lindbergh trial, in its thirty-second day. The baby was kidnapped and killed March 1, 1932.

Thirteen times the verdict was read.

After Walton had made known the decision, the Court Clerk asked: "Members of the jury, have you heard the verdict, that you find the defendant, Bruno Richard Hauptmann, guilty of murder in the first degree, and so say you all?"

"We do."

Shadows from photographers' flashes outside danced weirdly on the windows. The shouts of the crowd intruded on the courtroom hush.

The clerk polled the jurors, asked each by name:

"What is your verdict?"

One after the other fell the answers:

"I find him guilty of murder in the first degree." "I find him guilty of murder in the first degree." "I find him guilty—"

Lets Hauptmann Sit Down.

Hauptmann seemed not to hear it once.

Justice Trenchard bent a look on Hauptmann and directed him to sit.

"The defendant may be seated."

Turning to Attorney-General David T. Wilentz, he continued: "It seems to the Court that there is nothing remaining except to impose the sentence provided by the statute and I am now asking the Attorney-General if he moves the sentence."

"If your honor please, the State moves for the sentence of the death."

WILEY UNABLE TO GIVE CAUSE OF MACON CRASH

Tells Board Strain Would Fall on Part of Vessel Torn Away, at Order to Change Course.

By the Associated Press.

Nothing in Weather Caused Apprehension in Advance, He Says, as Official Inquiry Opens.

By the Associated Press.

San Francisco, Feb. 14.—An investigation to learn the cause of the destruction of the Navy airship, the Macon, was opened here today by a navy court of inquiry. The hearing was opened to newspapermen.

Lieutenant-Commander Herbert V. Wiley, commanding officer of the Macon, was the first witness, telling details of the airship's last voyage. The flight started from the Sunnyvale air base south of here Monday and involved maneuvers with surface vessels of the United States fleet before the crash in which two lives were lost.

Wiley told the board the weather was "at no time severe enough to cause me apprehension." His testimony shed no definite light on the cause of the crash, which occurred in the stern of the airship. Commander T. L. Gatch, judge advocate of the court, asked Wiley where the greatest strain would come from the order "left rudder." Wiley said the greatest strain would be just forward of the gas cells which collapsed.

Crashed in the Rain.

"My general impression of the weather," Wiley said, "was that there was no great turbulence, the only concern I had was about the visibility at Sunnyvale when we were to land."

Shortly after 5 p. m. we struck a solid sheet of clouds some miles south of Point Sur. These clouds reached up to 2000 feet, and under a was a curtain of rain to the surface. Passing through the clouds there was considerable turbulence, which caused us to drop from 2700 to 1700 feet. A few minutes later we hit a second mass of rain. It was when I gave the order 'left rudder,' that the first vibration hit the ship. The tragedy followed.

Other Inquiries Proposed.

Three proposals to investigate the crash have been made in Washington and President Roosevelt said there would be no immediate move to replace the airship.

There are a few dissenting voices, but official Washington is inclined to view the Macon's loss as indicating a halt in the Navy's development of the dirigible, temporarily if not permanently.

As to the cause of the crash, survivors and observers are agreed on only one thing—that the squally weather played only a minor part.

There have been hints of some structural weakness in the stern of the $2,450,000 ship, but navy officials have made no definite statement regarding such a possibility. They freely only on the heroism of the aircrew and the remarkable efficiency of the dirigible in rescuing all but two of the 83 aboard.

Story of Survivors.

Survivors of the loss of the Macon's crash and the rescue of the sea 125 miles south of San Francisco off Point Sur.

Cruising at a speed of 63 knots, the ship twice lowered its elevation to dodge rain squalls. Wiley has said, "when a short jar was felt."

"Upon inquiry of the elevator man (who controls the rudder guide in the ship's attitude) I was informed the elevator had slipped out of its hands." He went on to say the ship began to take a bow-up inclination and rose. Apparently the elevator man did not have control. Immediately I received a report from the aft that No. 1 cell one of the 12 helium gas cells which kept the craft aloft in midair was gone.

Then the Macon rose rapidly to 4000 feet, its nose sticking at a sharp angle above the stern, and sank slowly toward the water as the crew dived toward the forward gas chambers and threw ballast overboard from the stern in an attempt to right the lurching ship.

Men Slide Down Ropes.

As the ship lurching on its stern, sailors and officers slid down ropes that burned their hands and legs or dived into the heavy swell.

Twenty-two men who had gone forward as ballast did down the "horribly long" 125 feet of rope from the nose to the water. Each carried a flashlight.

Men swam through flame where flames had ignited oil and gasoline. Others rescued companions whose lifeboats were lost or broken in leaps into the sea.

Some of them sick from the odor of rubber rafts watched the ship slowly swallow the ship. With each ocean swell the Macon crumbled and sank. Under the gleam of the searchlights, three cruisers picked the men up from half an hour to an hour after they had abandoned ship.

Many have spoken of the heroism of Ernest Dailey, radio operator who stuck to his post to the last.

WANTS STATE TO PAY HAUPTMANN APPEAL COSTS

Defense Lawyer Says Case Will Be Taken to United States Supreme Court if Necessary.

By the Associated Press.

Attorney to Meet to Outline Plans.

New Jersey Procedure—First Step Is Application for Writ of Grace Which Usually Is Refused.

By the Associated Press.

Flemington, N. J., Feb. 14.—Egbert Rosenkrantz of defense counsel for Bruno Hauptmann, said today the defense lawyers would meet soon to outline plans for appealing from the death sentence.

Rosenkrantz said: "I believe all four members of the defense counsel are agreed that the only course we can adopt is to appeal the case on up to the United States Supreme Court if necessary."

He said the defense would take the case to the New Jersey Court of Errors and Appeals immediately.

He said he already has considered ways of obtaining the costly record of the Hauptmann trial and costs of its printing.

To Ask State to Pay Costs.

"We are going to apply to the State to meet the costs of getting this transcript for us," he asserted. "I shall take care of the short."

His understanding is that the State will meet such expenses in the event of a death sentence, but under no other circumstance.

Rosenkrantz or one of the other defense attorneys expected in New Jersey today or tomorrow to tell him of their plans and obtain his permission to go ahead.

Rosenkrantz, Chief Counsel Edward J. Reilly and C. Lloyd Fisher met after the verdict in Fisher's office.

"Whether or not we have funds, we are going to see this case through," Reilly said. "Although the jury has returned a verdict on facts, we believe that several errors have been committed in law."

New Jersey Procedure.

The procedure in appealing a first-degree murder verdict in New Jersey begins with the application to the Chancellor for a writ of grace, which would put the case in the Supreme Court.

The Chancellor customarily denies this application. Counsel then takes a certified copy of the denial to the Court of Errors and Appeals and asks for a writ of right, which permits an appeal to the Court of Errors and Appeals at its next term. In this case the next term starts the third Tuesday of May. The appeal is placed on the calendar to be argued sometime during that term.

It has been the practice of the Court of Errors and Appeals, which is composed of the Chancellor, the nine Supreme Court Justices, and six lay judges, to hand down opinions sometime in the month of October. In this case, the next term, which, in this case, would probably mean during September.

Court of Last Resort in State.

If the appeal is denied, counsel would apply to the Court of Pardons and Pardoners, which is composed of the Governor and the six lay judges, for commutation of the sentence to life imprisonment. It is the court of last resort. The Court of Pardons meets twice a year—in April and October—and Hauptmann's case probably would be considered in October.

If the commutation were denied, County Prosecutor Anthony M. Fauch, Jr., would ask Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, who presided at the trial, to fix a new date for the execution.

Judge's Instructions Attacked.

The defense took a general exception yesterday to the whole of Justice Trenchard's charge to the jury and objected specifically to what it said was the Court's inference that the Lindbergh nursery had been entered by means of a ladder, that the baby had been killed down a ladder, that the baby's sleeping suit had been ripped off where a thumbguard was found in Hunterdon County, and that first degree murder conviction would lie if a burglary was shown.

Objection also was taken to the Court's remarks about the man's failure to mention any defense witnesses as to the defendant, and to a comparison made between the defense and State alibi witnesses.

Pope said in his argument he thought the judge had "a serious misconception of the evidence" in referring to the thumbguard as having been tied to the baby's sleeping suit.

"Our recollection of the evidence," said Pope, "is that this thumbguard was tied around the wrist of the child, but on the outside of the sleeping suit and in no way fastened to the sleeping suit."

Pope argued that the State had made a "kaleidoscope change" between its opening at the beginning of the trial and its final summation at the end.

In its opening, he said, the State said it would prove that the child was killed when the ladder broke and in its summation argued that the blow was struck in the nursery. No evidence, he added, would support either of those theories.

Comment of Defense Counsel.

Defense counsel expressed confidence in eventual victory.

"There is no limit to the extent to which we intend pressing this case. We shall take it to the highest court of the country, the United States Supreme Court, if necessary," said Reilly.

"We believe that we shall be able to secure an ultimate reversal of the judgment," Reilly said in another statement today.

"The fight to save Bruno Richard Hauptmann has just begun. It is one of the greatest miscarriages of justice when mob psychology overcomes judicial calm. With all the handicaps of time and money, we are going to see this case through," Reilly said.

FIVE AT FIRST AGAINST DEATH FOR HAUPTMANN

ation when they were polled on the verdict, answering in choked, quivering tones.

After their return to their hotel last night, the jurors relaxed, dancing and singing in their quarters on the third floor.

A statement given out today, which was prepared by Foreman Charles S. Walton Sr., and approved by the eight men and four women of the jury, read:

"The only statement the members of the jury have to make is that they are glad to be released after their confinement of 43 days. The news has been well covered by the representatives of the different newspapers who themselves were on the scene."

"The relations between the jurors at all times have been amiable and it is well understood that we cannot give out any news concerning what occurred in the jury room. We now want to retire to our homes and again become ordinary citizens."

The statement was handed out by Lieut. George C. Wallace of the State Police.

Nurse Betty Gow Says SHE 'HATED MR. REILLY'

Glad Baby's Death Was Avenged; States Mrs. Lindbergh Has Offered Job to Her.

By the Associated Press.

ENGLWOOD, N. J., Feb. 14.—Miss Betty Gow, interviewed at the Morrow home today, blazed as she spoke of Defense Counsel Edward J. Reilly, "that Reilly person!"

"I hated Mr. Reilly," she said, "and I feel vindicated because the jury believed me instead of that dreadful Reilly person."

"I'm glad the baby's death has been avenged," she added.

Asked whether she had any plans, she said:

"I have been asked by Mrs. Lindbergh to take my position with her again. I'm undecided whether to go home first to England to see my mother, and come back to work in the spring. I think I'll go home for awhile though. If I do, I'll stay next week."

Erroneous First Report Said Life Imprisonment.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—An investigation here today of the broadcast last night by national radio chains of an erroneous report that Richard Bruno Hauptmann had been found guilty but with a recommendation for mercy making life imprisonment mandatory revealed that the report was sent out at 10:31 p. m. at a time when the members of the jury were just entering the jury box and Judge Thomas W. Trenchard was still in his chambers.

A wait of 13 minutes ensued before the Judge entered the courtroom and mounted his bench and the jury's verdict was announced. It was then at 10:45 p. m.—that a correction of the first radio report was broadcast.

The broadcasting chains announced that they had received the report from the Press Radio News Bureau, which in turn announced that the erroneous flash had been given that bureau by the Associated Press.

Associated Press Explanation.

By the Associated Press.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Feb. 14.—A misunderstanding of code signals last night resulted in the Associated Press flashing an erroneous verdict in the Hauptmann case.

In transmitting the report, the decision was garbled and the first word to reach waiting newspapers was that the jury had found Hauptmann guilty with a recommendation for life imprisonment.

Based on the State's estimate of $1000 a day, the trial cost New Jersey $32,000. The State House Commission allotted $50,000 for the case. Other thousands had been spent in the investigation.

Scene in Courtroom When Jury Brought in Verdict.

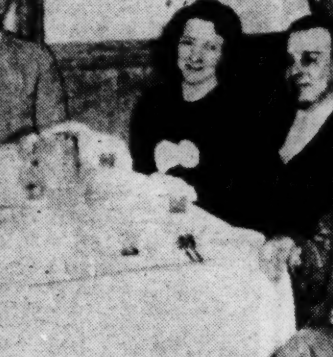

By the time the jurors returned to the courtroom, it was anything but a spectacular setting for the conclusion of the sensational case. Tobacco smoke hung heavily in the air; half-emptied containers of coffee perched on uncertain bases; lawyers and newspaper men who had waited since before noon stretched restlessly.

As abruptly as the flare of a match, a change transformed the room. Sheriff Curtiss came quickly into court from the door through which the jurors passed on their way to the jury room.

Even before he said it, the word whisked through the room: "They've reached a verdict. The jury's coming in."

Hauptmann's Mother Appeals to Roosevelt

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

KAMENZ, Germany, Feb. 14.—Frau Pauline Hauptmann appealed today to President Roosevelt to save her son, Bruno, from the electric chair.

"He will help an old mother," she sobbed, covering her face with her hands, as she learned the verdict. "I've hoped in vain all these months and now this terrible end."

"I Am Dying With Him."

For a moment the 65-year-old mother stood erect, her face chalk-like, her body quivering. They with an air of one in a dream, tears streaming down her cheeks and her head leaning against a wall, she murmured: "I am dying with him. Has the world forgotten a lone old mother?"

The period of confusion passed, Frau Hauptmann wiped her eyes and said: "President Roosevelt, he will help an old mother. I shall write him immediately and beg him to pardon my son."

She sat at a table to write when a cablegram was delivered from Flemington.

"Don't worry," it read, "decision only temporary. Announce the message, written in English, was translated for Frau Hauptmann by the Associated Press representative."

"Thank God!" she exclaimed. "I could only help Bruno through his burden. This telegram gives me some peace again."

Letter to the President.

She picked up a pen and with trembling hand wrote:

"Dear Mr. President: I am the mother of Bruno Hauptmann and have today learned through newspapers of the terrible verdict against my son. Dear Mr. President, the World War has taken away from me my husband and two of my sons. I am 70 years old. (Her 70th birthday is next June.)

"It would mean my death, if you, Mr. President, don't pardon my son because then I shall be alone."

"Mister President, disregard my previous offense for which the world must be held responsible. Bruno isn't a bad man. Therefore, I beg you to let him live. I have a son and two of my sons. I am 70 years old. (Her 70th birthday is next June.)

"The local newspaper office put a hand-written bulletin on the pavilion in its show window and was besieged by a crowd excitedly discussing the case."

SENATOR COSTIGAN TERMS LYNCHING 'OPEN ANARCHY'

Urges Colleagues in Subcommittee to Approve His Measure Against the Practice.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Describing lynching as "open anarchy," Senator Costigan (Dem., Colorado), today urged a Senate Judiciary Subcommittee to approve his bill to impose stringent penalties against mob participants, officials and sympathizers.

Facing a small group of spectators, mostly Negroes, the Senator said President Roosevelt had "condemned unconditionally" the crime of lynching. It was "more than a crime," he said, "it is a social evil."

When it appeared probable that legislation might become law, year lynchings ceased in the United States.

Then, when it became evident that Congress would adjourn without doing anything, the lynchings began again at about the rate of one a week."

Asked whether she had any plans, she said:

"I have been asked by Mrs. Lindbergh to take my position with her again. I'm undecided whether to go home first to England to see my mother, and come back to work in the spring. I think I'll go home for awhile though. If I do, I'll stay next week."

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 14.—The National Automobile Labor Board today announced that 50,121 of 66,122 workers for collective bargaining are unorganized.

He charged the Government with "a famous lie" that Lansbury had defended the meat test, the method of determining the need for the dose.

"I want to give the Prime Minister a warning that if this statement is repeated by him I will print and use the chance of imprisonment—the Chamberlain method on the subject," Lansbury shouted.

Judge's Son on Trial for Murder

ABOVE: PHIL KENNER, 19-year-old son of Federal Judge, on trial at Pawnee, Ok., charged with the murder of his friend, John F. Gorrell Jr., in Tulsa, Ok., last Thanksgiving Day. Below: MISS VIRGINIA WILCOX, 18, daughter of a wealthy Tulsa oil man. Kennamer said he killed Gorrell in self-defense to thwart an extortion plot alleged to involve Miss Wilcox.

he wrote, "and if I told you anything else, it was due to my delirium. My feeling for you is only admiration, friendship. All I ask is your friendship. You will be free of any annoyance by me."

The defense drew from Snedden that Kennamer had told him of his love for Miss Wilcox "two or three times a week" both before and after the letter was written.

Snedden said Kennamer threatened to take poison because of his hopeless love for Miss Wilcox.

"Didn't Kennamer tell you he had taken an overdose of poison and that is why he didn't die?" That's right.

Snedden yesterday testified he had "dated" Miss Wilcox for about a year and that he had been asked by Kennamer to persuade Miss Wilcox to write to him. Once, he said, when he had an engagement with Miss Wilcox, the defendant had written her a letter.

The defendant for whom the State seeks the death penalty, scowled while Snedden was on the stand.

Snedden said Kennamer had told him "an awful, awful lot of times" that he loved Virginia.

"He told me that she was the only real thing in his life, but that she did not love him," the witness related.

Waitress Called to Stand.

The name of Sidney Born Jr., a Tulsa chemist's son, who was found shot to death in an automobile Dec. 9 under circumstances that have never been cleared up, was brought into testimony today.

Born was found dead a week after telling officers he drove Kennamer to his meeting with Gorrell at the hospital Thanksgiving.

Mary Joe Huffard, "curb service" girl at a Tulsa drug store testified she saw Born at the store the night of the Gorrell killing. She said Born and Kennamer drove away from the store together but Born's return was delayed.

Wesley Cunningham, 18, told of finding Gorrell's body in a car in the Forest Hills section of Tulsa about midnight. A light in the parking space at the street intersection was burning. Cunningham said, "Cunningham could not say whether other lights in the vicinity of the death scene were out. Homer Wilcox Jr., brother of Virginia, has paid a municipal court fine in Tulsa for shooting out street lights in Forest Hills that night."

Randall Morton, Ogea Indian, testified he took a sheath knife away from young Kennamer Thanks giving. He detailed a lengthy talk with Kennamer at the Owl Tavern, in which Kennamer had told him Gorrell threatened to kidnap the Wilcox girl.

"He said he was going to kill Gorrell," said Phil, do you think it's worth doing it?" and he said it was all he could do. Then he said, holding his hands open and empty: "Are you going to send me out to kill a man empty handed?" and I gave him the knife back a moment, then I thought it over and told Phil I thought I'd better take the knife anyway, and I did."

The dead youth's mother left the courtroom weeping when police photographs of the death scene were introduced. Dr. Gorrell, the father, covered his face with his hands.

CANCELED CHECKS INTRODUCED AT CASHIER'S TRIAL

Government Seeks to Show Henry Giessenbier Put $1480 of Bank's Funds in Own Account.

Canceled checks and records of brokerage houses where the closed Scruggs, Vandervoort & Barney Bank carried accounts designated "attention Mr. Giessenbier," have been introduced at the trial of Henry Giessenbier, cashier of the bank accused of misapplying $19,763 of its funds.

The trial, before a 13-man jury in Federal Judge Davis' court, continued today with the Government seeking to show that Giessenbier used the funds of depositors in 1931 to meet his own obligations on stock market speculations.

In cross-examination of witnesses, Forrest C. Donnell of defense counsel brought out that it was customary for banks to carry accounts with brokerage firms and to buy and sell stocks for the accommodation of their customers.

First Count of Indictment.

The testimony so far has been directed toward the first count of the indictment which alleged that Giessenbier misapplied $1480 of the bank's funds by depositing that amount in his personal checking account with another bank.

The checks through which the Government expected to prove that charge were identified by Frank Merget, head bookkeeper for the bank. They included cashier's checks of the Scruggs bank payable to brokerage houses, and checks credited to the accounts of depositors or to the bank's own account, carried under its Clearing House designation "No. 68."

This series of transactions began, the Government alleged, when the bank received $8810 for a customer in payment of Liberty Bonds.

That money, the Government charged, was converted into two cashier's checks, one made payable to a brokerage house, the other to the bank's account, "No. 68."

Then, the Government contended, Giessenbier issued cashier's checks in favor of brokers and customers of the bank, until the balance that remained of the original $8810 was $1480. For that amount, it was alleged, he issued a cashier's check payable to the "No. 68" account.

Tells of Cashing Check.

William C. Lago, who was a teller for the bank, has testified he cashed such a check for Giessenbier Nov. 3, 1931, although it was not indorsed by the cashier.

Merget testified that about the same time Giessenbier wrote a check for $1223 in favor of the Jefferson-Gravois Bank, and that when the check had cleared, he asked Giessenbier what to do with it, because the cashier had no checking account at the Scruggs bank.

Merget said Giessenbier had instructed him to hold the check as a cash item, and a day or so later, he said, Giessenbier had taken up the $1223 check with his personal check for the same amount, drawn on another bank.

The $1223 check, he said, was cashed at the bank, and Giessenbier was able to take up the $1223 check because he had deposited the $1480 in his checking account with the other bank.

Donnell, cross-examining the witness, asked the $1223 check, which he did not know that Giessenbier and Frank M. Mayfield, president of the Scruggs bank, had a joint loan at the Jefferson-Gravois Bank. The witness said he knew nothing about that matter.

C. J. Prince, who was vice-president of the Scruggs bank, was recalled to the witness stand. He testified it was not the policy of the bank to cash checks which bore no indorsement. He was unable to understand, he said, how it happened that some checks, which have been introduced in evidence, had not been indorsed.

OPERATION OF YELLOW CABS BY PARAMOUNT CO. BARRED

Mound City Co. Has Exclusive Right to Color Scheme, Board of Public Service Rules.

Application by the Paramount Cab Co. for a permit to operate 25 cabs with a yellow and black color scheme was refused by the Board of Public Service yesterday as the Mound City Cab Co. obtained exclusive rights to the color scheme when it was licensed Jan. 15, succeeding American Taxicabs, Inc., in the operation of Yellow cabs.

Frank Foley, 4108 Utah street, former superintendent for the defunct Red Top Cab Co., represented the Paramount Co. His attorney declared there is a need for more taxicab service in St. Louis as only 235 are being operated now, whereas there once were 600. Alderman Michael J. Scott, of counsel for the Mound City Cab Co., opposed the application. Eleven Paramount cabs are now being operated by individuals.

Application of four Negro companies to operate 37 cabs were granted over the protest of Harry J. Cantwell, attorney for the Chauffeurs' Union, Local 405, who charged the Negro companies competed unfairly with other transportation agencies by advertising a ride for any distance for 15 cents. No action was taken on applications of two other Negro companies to operate 20 cabs.

The closed Wellston Trust Co. was the owner of 2400 shares of stock in the closed Grand National Bank and as such must pay an assessment of $240,000 to the receiver for the Grand National, Federal Judge Davis ruled today.

Ownership of the stock had been disclosed by the Wellston Trust Co. in an effort to avoid paying the assessment, levied under the double liability provision of national bank charters.

Both banks, which were controlled by Ed Mays, are being liquidated. The State Finance Department, in charge of liquidation of the trust company, contended the stock was never actually owned by the Wellston Trust Co., but came into its possession by an arrangement devised to evade a State law limiting the amount the trust company could lend to any individual.

Ruling on State Law.

Judge Davis found, however, that the same statute that limited loans by State banks to any individual to 25 per cent of their capital and surplus also authorized State banks to own all or part of the capital stock of a national bank.

To construe the transaction in Grand National Bank stock as a loan, the Court held, would be an attempt to give legal effect to an act which exceeded the authority of the Wellston Trust Co.

The stock in question was sold to Wellston Trust Co. by Ed Mays on Nov. 17, 1931, for $276,000, at the rate of $115 a share. At the same time the Continental Securities & Holding Co., which Mays also controlled, executed a contract to buy the stock back from the Wellston Trust Co. but that contract was never fulfilled.

Testimony on Loans.

When the suit of the Grand National receiver to collect the assessment was tried last month, former officers of the Wellston Trust Co. testified that at the time the deal was made the State Finance Department had protested against four loans, totaling $190,000, which the Wellston Trust Co. had made to four associates of Mays.

These loans were paid off, the testimony showed, when Mays sold the Grand National stock. Counsel for the State Finance Department charged the borrowers were merely "straw men" for Mays, and contended the whole transaction was simply a sham to cover up a loan to Mays. Under the law, they pointed out, Wellston Trust Co. could not have lent more than $55,000 to any one individual.

The transaction was criticized by Circuit Judge Ryan last summer, when he removed Mays from control of the Continental Life Insurance Co. Judge Ryan referred to it as a case of "whipping the devil around the stump."

The Wellston Trust Co., which has been closed for two years, has made one payment of 10 per cent to depositors, who had $906,000 in the bank.

HOLDS WELLSTON TRUST MUST PAY LEVY ON STOCK

Federal Judge Rules $240,000 Due on Grand National Shares Under Double Liability Law.

The closed Wellston Trust Co. was the owner of 2400 shares of stock in the closed Grand National Bank and as such must pay an assessment of $240,000 to the receiver for the Grand National, Federal Judge Davis ruled today.

Aldermen Allowed $250 for City Contract Inquiry.

Estimate Board Denies, However, It Considers Hay Disqualified to Serve as Counsel.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment today allowed $250 for retaining special counsel and stenographer to assist the aldermanic committee appointed to investigate the reported connection of three aldermen with city contracts.

In making the allowance the Board of Estimate issued a statement it did not concur in a charge made by Alderman Waldman, chairman of the investigating committee, that City Counselor Hay had disqualified himself and shown partiality in making a report to the committee covering the cases of only two of the aldermen.

Instead, the board said it made the allowance so the investigation would not be interrupted, and with approval of Hay, "who has expressed his preference that special counsel be employed on account of the attitude of the chairman of the investigating committee."

The investigation concerns the alleged connection of Alderman Hoeflinger with the Standard Clothing and Tailoring Co., which received city contracts, and of Aldermen Lietchen and Israel with a wrap checking concession at the Municipal Auditorium.

Israel and Hoeflinger have denied any connection with the contracts, and Lietchen has refused to discuss the reports.

SENTENCED FOR HAVING BOGUS WHISKY STAMPS

Independent Bottle Co. and Officer of Firm Plead No Contest.

Gordon Matasofsky, secretary of the Independent Bottle Co., 1735 Biddle street, was sentenced to four months in jail and fined $1002 today on a charge of possession of counterfeit whisky strip stamps, a violation of the internal revenue act. Federal Judge Faris also fined the bottle company $1002.

On Feb. 4, 1934, Federal agents seized a truck load of counterfeit strip stamps and whisky labels in an alley back of the bottle concern. According to the agents, many of the stamps and labels were sorted into sets of 12 and 24 each, corresponding to the number of bottles in the several sizes of whisky cases.

James E. Carroll, counsel for Matasofsky, told the Court that his client formerly sold bogus strip stamps and labels to bootleggers, but at the time of the arrest had decided to cease that business and had sent the truck load of labels to a dump. In support of this contention, the attorney stated, Matasofsky had directed agents to a nearby establishment controlled by him, where an employee was burning counterfeit labels. Carroll entered a plea of no contest for Matasofsky and the company.

Judge Faris imposed sentence on three counts of the indictment, six other counts having been dismissed with leave to reinstate. The fine was divided, $1000 on the first count and $1 each on the other two. The Court called attention to the fact that the man found guilty of printing the counterfeit stamps several years ago received a five-year prison sentence.

SENATE REJECTS PLAN FOR TAX ON SECURED DEBTS

Votes 18 to 14 Against Resolution to Submit Constitutional Amendment in Missouri.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 14.—The Senate rejected today a proposal to submit to the voters an amendment to the State Constitution, authorizing a secured debt tax, and relieving all secured debts from other taxation. Included in the proposal defeated was an exemption of all homesteads from taxation up to an assessed valuation of $2000.

At the same time the House perfected a resolution for a constitutional amendment authorizing the Legislature to exempt from taxation homesteads up to $1000 assessed valuation.

The House resolution, if adopted by that body, will go to the Senate which will then have an opportunity again to consider that phase of the taxation question.

The Senate resolution, introduced by Senator Crouse, of St. Joseph, had the double purpose of bringing out the vast amount of mortgages and other secured debts which are not returned for taxation, and also relieving property owners of taxes on $2000 of the assessed valuation of their homes.

Cited in Governor's Message.

Gov. Park in his biennial message to the Legislature said that less than $125,000 was received in State taxes from mortgages and other secured debts, the holders refusing to list them because the high tax rate would in many instances exceed the return on the investments.

Under the Crouse resolution an excise tax to be paid when the evidence of debt was filed for record was authorized, though no amount was fixed. A rate of 50 cents on the $100 was tentatively discussed, but under the resolution the exact rate would be fixed by the Legislature after adoption of the amendment to the Constitution by a vote of the people.

The homestead exemption provision came in for much more discussion in the Senate debate than the secured debt provision. Senator Rozier of Perryville attempted without success to amend the resolution to limit the exemption to $1000.

Plea for Small Towns. He said that in many small towns there was no property assessed at more than $2000 and that property, almost without exception, was assessed at less than 50 per cent of its value. The result of the adoption of the resolution, he said, would be to exempt residence property occupied by the owner up to a valuation of $4000 or $5000. It would, he said, deprive the small towns of tax money needed for police protection, fire protection and other city purposes and in many rural districts would mean the closing of public schools.

Though Rozier was not supported on his amendment, the Senate voted to let the entire resolution, the vote being 14 for perfection to 18 against.

ORDERS TAX APPEALS BOARD TO REHEAR RAILWAY'S CLAIM

Court Sustains, in Part, Kansas City Southern's Plea for Taxable Income Deductions.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today sustained in part the claim of the Kansas City Southern Railroad for deductions in its taxable income in 1920 growing out of Government operation of railroads during the World War.

The Court ordered the Board of Tax Appeals to reopen the litigation in accordance with the opinion, holding that the railroad could deduct from taxable income $429,821.39 for unreimbursement during the war. The claimant is not entitled, the opinion states, to a deduction of $250,968.75 representing the market value difference in supplies before and after Government operation. No recommendation was made on the railroad's claim for $258,000 for overlapping items.

The opinion held that the Board of Tax Appeals, which sustained the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in denying the claims, erred in not reopening the case on the supplies claim and the plea for deduction under overlapping items.

ASSESSMENT OF COUNTY PROPERTY UP $24,885,101

Advance to $233,071,684 Is 12 Per Cent Above Total for Preceding Year.

This will increase the general revenue, bond retirement and State taxes about $290,000, payable next Sept. 1. Real estate was assessed at $208,459,570, an increase of $20,475,640, or 11 per cent. Of this, lot property in cities and subdivisions was assessed at $157,523,300, an increase of $15,454,620; farm lands and estates at $50,936,180, an increase of $5,019,020. Personal property assessments increased $4,409,461, or 21 per cent, to $24,612,114.

TO GIVE STATES CONTROL OVER OLD AGE FUNDS

House Ways and Means Committee Agrees to Rewrite Social Security Bill in This Respect.

OTHER CHANGES ALSO ORDERED

Administration to Be Taken From Emergency Relief Chief and Given to New Federal Board.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. — The House Ways and Means Committee, considering the administration's social security bill, agreed last night to give the states virtually complete control over whichever old age pension systems they may set up. There was no record vote on this, but the committee called in its drafting clerks, explained what was wanted and told the clerks to write substitutes for provisions now made in the bill.

The changes will be discussed with President Roosevelt and then acted on by the committee before the bill is presented to the House.

As outlined today by committee members, the new modifications would—

Let the states, instead of a Federal agent, fix the size of old age pensions and permit a variation in amount within one state;

Make Federal financial assistance possible even though every county in a state does not pay pensions;

Give the 28 states that now have old age pension systems until the spring of 1937 or 1938 to meet the new requirements.

Leave to the states a decision as to whether persons convicted of felonies should draw pensions.

The positive requirements remaining would be that:

By 1940 or before a state, to get Federal aid, must pension persons over 65, although the limit before then would be 70.

Persons whose claims for pensions were denied would appeal to a state authority.

A pensioner must have resided within a state for five of the last 10 years.

There was a possibility that the final draft might include a provision permitting states to make agreements on handling pensioners who move from one state to another. This would be designed to protect both the states that have high pensions and the aged who change their residences for health or other reasons.

The committee members have agreed to take administration of the fund out of the hands of the emergency relief administrator and give it to a new social insurance board.

Meanwhile, renewed demands for a more liberal form of social insurance were placed before the House Labor Committee.

Richard M. Kroon of Detroit listed numerous Detroit and Michigan American Federation of Labor locals which he said were for the measure.

"The new Wagner-Lewis bill can, without contradiction, be labeled a fake unemployment insurance bill," he said.

DOUBTS VALIDITY OF LIMITING CONTRACTS TO ST. LOUIS FIRMS

Associate Counselor Senti Gives Alderman Opinion on Public Works Ordinance.

An ordinance providing that preference be given residents of the city in employment on all public works probably would be upheld by the courts, if the prevailing wage scale ordinance should be sustained, by the Supreme Court of Missouri.

Associate City Counselor Senti told the Board of Public Service yesterday.

However, his opinion expressed grave doubt as to the validity of any effort to limit the award of contracts on public works to local contractors, especially where payment would be made in whole or in part through special taxes against property owners.

Senti's opinion was sought by the Board of Public Service after receipt of a resolution by the Board of Aldermen, urging that local contractors and mechanics be employed on all cut stone work.

St. Louis stone contractors and workers have complained because much work of this type was obtained by interested at Bedford, Ind. Senti said the question of limiting contracts and employment was one of public policy primarily for determination by the legislative body rather than by administrative officers. The opinion was forwarded to the Board of Aldermen.

DIETERICH ON NEW DEAL

Illinois Senator Expresses Hope for Return to Old System.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. — "There are still enough members left in the Senate to return Government to sound principles when this emergency is over," Senator Dieterich of Illinois told the Dames of the Loyal Legion in a Lincoln day speech here.

"I am always unlucky," Dieterich said. "I came to the Senate when normal reasoning was thrown into the waste basket. They held up the flag of emergency and out it went."

Representative Keller (Dem.), Illinois, another speaker, called Lincoln a "comrade of men" in describing his home-spun qualities.

DEAF MUTES DIVORCED; TESTIMONY BY SIGNS

Samuel H. White Charged Wife Nagged Him and Was Jealous.

There was an unusual scene in Circuit Judge Nolte's court at Clayton today when Samuel H. White and two witnesses testified by signs in White's suit for divorce against Mrs. Maude White.

The hearing was conducted through an interpreter, who gave the oath in sign language to the witnesses, all deaf mutes, and translated the questions and answers.

White, a display man in a downtown department store, obtained the divorce on the ground of general indignities.

Mrs. White, who resides at 7557 Ahern avenue, University City, was in court with her lawyer but did not testify. She is also a deaf mute.

White, motioning vigorously with his hands, testified his wife had been nagging, suspicious and jealous. Judge Nolte interjected with a question, "How did she fuss and nag at you?"

White motioned a reply, "It was mostly about money." They were married in May, 1931, he testified, and separated a year later.

She begged him to return and promised to "do better," he continued. "I returned to her last April, just on trial," he went on, "but she didn't keep her promise. She accused me of associating with other women and told me to get a divorce. That she would find another man, I left her again Nov. 25, after she had me arrested for non-support." He added he was not found guilty of the charge.

In answer to a query of the Court, White admitted he had associated with other women during the first separation, but added he had done nothing "wrong."

His character witnesses were Mrs. Alfred Williams of East St. Louis and E. A. Rosson, 7558 Ahern avenue, University City. The interpreter was Mrs. E. L. Ballard of East St. Louis. White lives at 2800 Locust street.

For Daily Federal Record.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Legislation to require publication of all executive and administrative orders in a daily Federal Record similar to the Congressional Record was approved by a House Judiciary Subcommittee yesterday. The measure was drafted after the Supreme Court during the NRA oil case had called attention to the fact that an order involved had not even been signed but had figured in the suit through the lower courts as if it had been.

COUNTY COURT ASKS STATE TO WIDEN KIRKWOOD STREET
It Would Pay Half of Cost on Highway 77 Project; Remainder From U. S. Funds.
The St. Louis County Court yesterday requested the State Highway Department to widen Highway 77 from 30 to 46 feet between Adams and Swan avenues in Kirkwood, a distance of half a mile, assessing half the cost against the county and paying the remainder from Federal funds.
In December, 1932, the Court ordered the widening of this part of Kirkwood road and of the stretch between Madison avenue and the Frisco tracks. The latter improvement was completed, but the order was amended in 1933 by rescinding authorization for the other widening. Yesterday's resolution sets the maximum to be paid by the county as its share at $15,000.
Kills Wife and Surrenders.
WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 14.—Mrs. Millie Kruzinski, 23 years old, was found shot to death in a second floor bedroom of her home yesterday and a short time afterward her husband, William, 24, walked into a police station, surrendered and confessed shooting her.

ST. LOUIS COMMUNISTS DENOUNCE EX-LEADER
George Benz, Candidate for Mayor in 1933, Assailed as "Tool of Bosses."
St. Louis Communists issued a fiery formal denunciation today of George Benz, Communist candidate for Mayor in 1933 and leader of the City Hall riot the previous summer, who disclosed recently he had been dropped from the rolls of the "reds" and referred to the present leaders as "pink tea Communists."
Describing their former leader as "a tool in the hands of the bosses and our enemy," District 21 of the Communist party referred to him as a "renegade," placed him in the vanguard of the bourgeoisie.
Benz, who said today he had challenged his former associates to meet him in debate, was described as accepting the leadership of the City Hall mob "only after tremendous pressure." He was paroled from the bench recently from a six months' workhouse sentence for his part in the demonstration, still called by Communists "Bloody Monday."
Maintaining, as always, his office under his black slouch hat, Benz observed that he had "a good notion" to show his Communist opponents how good an organizer he is by attempting to deplete their ranks and further a new "liberal" movement.
But the Communists, through William Lenter, district organizer, stated: "We warn all workers . . . to give no information to Benz, to isolate him and regard him as a conscious anti-working class element whose only aim is to disrupt the struggle of the workers and benefit himself."

"CHEAP" COAL is a Bad Bargain

Not how much the coal costs but how much heat in the coal is what counts. "Cheap" coal has excessive ash and little heat and usually, no matter how low the price, it is worth less than it costs.

WAECHTER TO GIVE LEGISLATURE NEW REGISTRATION BILL
Election Board Chairman to Write Substitute for Measure Providing for Permanent Listing.
Chairman Waechter of the Election Board announced today that he would draft a new bill for submission to the Legislature for permanent registration of voters in St. Louis.
It would be proposed as a substitute for the measure introduced last month at the request of the League of Women Voters and the young men's division of the Chamber of Commerce.
Waechter, a Democrat, said there were numerous objections to the provisions of the pending bill, along the line of criticisms made by Miss Emma J. Bobb, a Republican, his predecessor as chairman of the Election Board. Miss Bobb had called attention to a number of major and minor clauses in the bill which she thought were objectionable. Waechter asserted that it was unworkable and impracticable.
However, he thought an acceptable and workable measure could be prepared. He said he would use the pending measure and a permanent registration plan for Kansas City, which has been placed before the Legislature, as a basis for his bill, but would make it fit St. Louis conditions. He expected to have the bill ready next week.
Mayor Dickmann replied yesterday to a letter from the League of Women Voters, urging him to support its bill. He said:
"Since permanent registration will result in a financial saving to the city and a great convenience to the citizens, I do not hesitate to state that I am in favor of the principle of permanent registration, without committing myself to the details of any particular bill."
He added that he understood the Election Board would have a substitute bill, saying: "I would not desire to commit myself to any bill until there has been a careful study of both bills and the conditions they are designed to correct."
Chairman Hannegan of the Democratic City Committee, who is the city's legislative agent at Jefferson City, has criticized the pending bill as impracticable and expensive.
Advocates of permanent registration have argued that it would tend to prevent or reduce election frauds and would reduce the expense of enrolling voters and keeping the voters' lists up to date.

'LIVING WAGE' TO ONLY 12 MOVIE EXTRAS LAST YEAR
Six Men Players Made $2500 or Better in 1934, Six Women $2000 or More.
By the Associated Press.
HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 14.—Only 12 men and women movie extra players earned a "living wage" during 1934. According to the Central Casting Bureau's annual report. Six men extra players made $2500 or more, and only one woman that amount. Five women extras made less than that, but better than $2000.
All of these "high earners" are dress extras, who are listed on official roles as "class A dress people." The man who earned the most was Oliver Cross, paid $2846 for 195 days' work. Women extras were headed by Gale Ronn, who received $2641 for 167 days before the camera.
The report says that 219,859 daily jobs were given about 4000 extras last year, for which they received

A. F. L. Says Business Prospects Are "Not Yet Clear" But Wages Must Rise to Assure Profits

Monthly Survey Reaches Back 80 Years to Show Worker's Share in Created Value Constantly Is Growing Less.

By RAYMOND P. BRANDT, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Noting that 1935 opened with business well above last year's level, the American Federation of Labor, in its monthly survey of business made public today asserted that wages must be raised to assure profits.

"Prospects for the next few months are not yet clear," the survey said. "Business observers expect that industry will at least hold its present level through the spring season; whether it will rise above this level depends on factors still in the making."

Developing its thesis that under modern conditions wages must be raised first so that profits will then follow, the survey continued:

"Two significant facts in the recent course of business stand out: (1) In spite of rises and declines, business has kept well above the low level of March, 1933. Increased buying power of workers and farmers has been the chief factor in sustaining this higher level. (2) Business profits have increased in these two years; the financial condition of business firms in general has improved so that in the spring of 1935, many more firms are in a position to profit by rising activity than in any of the three previous years."

In Position to Pay More.

"The present rise of business activity is of particular significance to labor, for increasing production will now place many firms in a position to pay higher wages. Increasing production reduces unit production costs and thus makes higher wage payments possible. Two illustrations will serve to make this point clear:

(1) Experience of one firm: In 1932 General Motors produced 563,000 cars at a profit of $83 per car. In 1933 its production increased by 300,000 cars, or 54 per cent to 863,000, the cost per car was reduced and the profit per car increased to $136.

(2) Experience of manufacturing industry in general: In 1927 the index of manufacturing production stood at 100; manufacturing corporations made profit of 2580 millions or 8 per cent on their capital stock. In 1929, production had risen to index 119; profits rose to 3562 millions or nearly 12 per cent on capital stock.

Wages Increased Only 1 Per Cent.

"Thus was created an increase in income sufficient to raise wages, but actually wages increased only 1 per cent while profit per share of capital stock increased 50 per cent. During depression, factory production declined to index 83 in 1932, below zero to a deficit of 5.8 per cent per share. In 1933, however, a 19 per cent increase in production changed this deficit into a small profit—nearly 1 per cent on capital stock. Judging from figures thus far available for 1934, a 4 per cent increase in production since 1933 has further lifted profits by more than a hundred million dollars."

The survey said that as the result of operating economies and financial adjustments during the past four years many corporations can now operate profitably even if production does not increase.

Case of One Corporation.

"Take for instance the experience of 28 of our largest corporations in 29 different industries, the survey challenged. "In 1929 they earned a 13.6 per cent profit on sales amounting to $1,214,300,000. By 1932 their sales had been cut in half and their profit on sales reduced to 4 per cent or $172,200,000. In 1933, although sales figures had not increased, their profit on sales amounted to 8.6 per cent or $364,700,000. This record indicates that large corporations in particular are in a position to increase wages this spring."

The survey said that some industries were in better position to pay higher wages than others but that the lack of collective bargaining machinery prevented the wage earners from getting increases.

"The tobacco industries," the survey said, "are in a better position to increase wages today than any others and their sales volume exceeded 1929. Nevertheless, from 1933 to 1934, the cigarette industry increased average wage payments by only 75 cents a week while wages in the women's clothing industry rose by nearly $3 a week. Average weekly earnings of workers in these two industries in 1934 were: Cigarettes, $11.84; women's clothing, $18.82."

Go Back 80 Years for Figures.

The survey went back more than 80 years to show that the workers' share in created wealth was growing constantly less with larger shares going to overhead, managerial expenses and profits.

"With the increased use of machinery in our production processes," the survey said, "workers are sharing less and less in the income created by their work."

"In 1849, workers received about half (51 per cent) the value created by manufacture. By 1919 their share had shrunk to 42 per cent and today (1933) it is about one-third (38 per cent). The share going to profits and overhead, on the other hand, has increased from one-half to nearly two-thirds of the total during the same period. Increases in overhead have been due to larger interest payments, upkeep of machinery, high salaries to management. From 1919 to 1933, while workers' share dropped from 42 per cent to 38 per cent, the average workers' producing capacity also doubled. Production per worker per hour in our manufacturing industries increased 71 per cent. Thus we are steadily increasing the amount each worker produces and steadily decreasing the proportion of the product our wage earners can buy.

"Dependence on Wage Earners."

"This unbalance is the more serious because we must depend on wage earners' purchases to create a market for our products. In 1849, our industries were not equipped to produce for the mass of wage earners. Today industry has placed on the market over 21,500,000 passenger automobiles, 20,000,000 radios, 10,000,000 home telephones and other comforts and luxuries in equally large numbers. Since there are only 160,000 wealthy families in the United States (incomes over $25,000 a year) and less than 7,756,000 moderately well-to-do (incomes $2500 to $25,000 a year), clearly we must depend on the lower income groups (incomes under $2500 a year), wage and small salaried workers, who number over 19,558,000 families, to buy the products our industries turn out. This dependence on wage earners makes their organization essential."

Truck and $15,000 Load Stolen.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—Three men who halted a truck driven by Harry Zimmerman, 35, abducted the driver and stole the machine with its load of merchandise valued at $15,000, Zimmerman reported to highway police yesterday. Zimmerman, a driver for the Willett Co., cartage contractors, said the men forced him to stop on the far South Side and ordered him into their automobile. One of the three drove away in the truck, which was loaded with tobacco and motor oils, while his companions took Zimmerman to Hammond, Ind.

FOR QUOTAS ON POTATO PRODUCTION AND SALES

Bare Majority of Committee of Growers From 21 States Approves Draft of Bill.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—A bare majority of a committee representing potato growers in 21 states approved yesterday the tentative draft of a bill to make potatoes a basic commodity and set up production and sales quotas.

As drafted and approved, the bill would provide for production quotas, to be fixed by states, based on the yield of any three years from 1927 to 1933, and sales quotas, to be made to individual growers, based on sales records from 1930 to 1933. The Secretary of Agriculture would be empowered to impose a tax of 75 cents on every 100 pounds of potatoes sold in excess of sales allotments.

Eleven of the 21 states represented at the meeting were recorded in favor of the bill. Four were voted present, three against, two absent and one not voting.

States voting for the bill were Alabama, Idaho, Illinois, Kansas, Maine, Minnesota, New Jersey, North Carolina, Ohio, Virginia and West Virginia.

Florida, Michigan, New York and Nebraska voted present; California and Maryland, absent; Connecticut and Massachusetts and Pennsylvania against the plan. The Louisiana delegate did not vote.

The bill would provide a processing tax not benefit payments. The cost of administration would be borne by the Treasury.

Decision to have sales quotas as well as production quotas was made in view of the fact that a large part of the crop is grown for home consumption and as feed for livestock.

Under the plan, a farmer may have a production allotment of 1000 pounds and a sales allotment of only 300 pounds and would pay the tax of 75 cents a hundred pounds only on the pounds sold in excess of his quota.

Tax-exempt certificates would be issued in the amount of sales quotas, but growers would be permitted to buy these certificates from other farmers who have them. The potatoes would be sold in closed packages.

FINDS CONTRACT WAS IN GOOD FAITH

RFC, Which Has Lent $23,- 000,000 to Railroad, Attacked Legality of Transaction.

A $6,000,000 reduction in the purchase price of terminal properties in North Kansas City and St. Joseph, which the Missouri Pacific Railroad contracted to buy in 1930 for about $20,000,000, was recommended to Federal Judge Faris today by Marion C. Early, special master for the court.

The properties were purchased from the Van Sweringens interests, which controlled the Missouri Pacific before it went into bankruptcy. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which had lent about $23,000,000 to the railroad, had attacked the transaction on the ground it was unfair to the Missouri Pacific because of an excessive price. Early found that the contracts were executed in good faith, without profit to the Van Sweringens interests, and that the representatives of the Missouri Pacific believed the properties were worth the agreed price. However, he recommended that the contracts should be disaffirmed, unless the reduction in purchase price was made, declaring that carrying out of the contracts had become "unduly burdensome to the Missouri Pacific because of conditions which have developed and which could not reasonably have been foreseen."

In fixing the reduction, Early stated there should be a readjustment of interest and credits. He pointed out that the Missouri Pacific had paid $3,200,000 on the contracts before defaulting.

Denies Trust Law Violation. In his findings and recommendations, Early denied, as unsupported by evidence, the contention of the RFC that the contracts violated the Clayton anti-trust law and were entered without authority of Missouri Pacific directors.

No fraud or concealment of assets has been shown, he held, referring to the RFC contention that the Missouri Pacific did not get $4,193,000 in interest accounts belonging to it as part of the transaction involving the North Kansas City properties.

Max O'Rell Truitt, local counsel for the RFC, contended that the accounts, set up at the liability on the books of the North Kansas City companies which sold the properties to the Van Sweringens interests, should have been turned over to the Missouri Pacific in its subsequent purchase.

"An Oversight," They Said. Early, however, said the evidence showed that when the master was brought up during the hearings, the Armour-Swift packing interests, to which the accounts were payable originally, stated that failure to cancel the indebtedness was an oversight. Under these circumstances, the accounts did not remain a $4,000,000 obligation of the Missouri Pacific.

The accounts represented interest on notes given by the North Kansas City companies to Armour-Swift for advances made from 1903 to 1918.

In the hearings, held before Early in 1933 and 1934, witnesses for the Missouri Pacific testified the properties were worth more than the agreed price, allowing for control or traffic value to the Missouri Pacific. Government accountants placed the "real value" of the properties at $6,152,000, but made no allowance for traffic value.

COMMON colds often settle in throat and chest where they may become dangerous. Don't take chances—at the first sniffle rub on Children's Musterole.

Children's Musterole is just good old Musterole, only in milder form. It penetrates the skin with a warming tingle and goes to the seat of trouble. It gets such marvelous results because it's NOT just a salve, but a "counter-irritant"—quick and helpful in drawing out pain and congestion.

Used by millions for 25 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses. All druggists. In three strengths: Regular Strength, Children's (mild), and Extra Strong. Tested and approved by Good Housekeeping Bureau, No. 4867.

Missouri Pacific, characterized the RFC objectives as "a tempest in a teapot," asserting its contention that the interest accounts was a misapprehension. He said Allegheny Corporation, holding company for the two billion dollar Van Sweringens railroad interests, withheld nothing in turning the properties over to the Missouri Pacific, acting solely for benefit of the Missouri Pacific without gain to itself.

The RFC had delayed its report on the reorganization plan proposed for the Missouri Pacific by the Van Sweringens interests, pending the filing of Early's recommendations.

BETTING BILL HEARINGS AT JEFFERSON CITY

House Committee Considers Hess Proposal to Legalize All Kinds of Race Wagers and Approves It.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 14. — While the Senate Committee on Criminal Jurisprudence was holding a lengthy hearing on the Wisdom bill to legalize pari-mutuel or certificate forms of betting on horse racing last night, the House Committee on Taxation and Revenue, after a hearing that lasted less than five minutes, reported favorably a bill to legalize betting on any and all races.

The House bill was introduced by Representative David A. Hess of St. Louis and is similar to a bill sponsored last session by Senator Wisdom, but was defeated largely because it would have permitted dog races. Wisdom left the dog racing provision out of his bill this year.

Hess, who formerly was employed as a cashier at the Madison Kennel Club, provides in his bill for the creation of a State Racing Commission for race tracks within 15 miles of St. Louis would be $600 a day and for tracks within 15 miles of Kansas City, $300 a day. The State would receive 20 cents on each admission ticket.

Preacher Opposes Hess Bill.

Only Representative Robert M. Talbert of Cape Girardeau County, a minister, appeared to oppose the Hess bill. A dog track representative spoke briefly on the anticipated revenue which the measure would produce. Revenue would go to 4H Clubs, animal husbandry clubs, and the agricultural college.

Before the Senate Committee, Vernon D. Andrews of Kansas City, secretary of the National Coursing Association, made a determined effort to induce Wisdom to liberalize his bill to permit betting on dog races, but Wisdom said that "any kind of amendment would be objected to."

Andrews said that the dog track operators were "vitaly interested in the bill as a revenue measure" and that they, unlike other groups who have appeared at the Legislature, were "asking to be taxed." He said that the committee was passing merely on pari-mutuel betting and that if it desired to permit it on horse races and not on dog races it would be "sponsoring class legislation."

Speakers for the bill told what it would do to "rehabilitate the breeding of race horses in Missouri, which once ranked second only to Kentucky," and how it would be a boon to farmers.

Charles W. Green, secretary of the Missouri State Fair, suggested to Senator Michael E. Casey of Kansas City, who has a large racing stable of his own that he might also enter the breeding field if racing came back. Casey races some of his horses at the Riverside track in Platte County just outside of Kansas City which now permits betting by the "contribution" system.

Hudson Attacks Wisdom Bill. It remained for a farmer from Gentry County, Representative Taylor D. Hudson, to present most of the opposition to the Wisdom bill. "If you legalize betting on horse races," he said, "you might as well repeal all laws on betting. Some people don't like to go to the races, they would rather go out under a big shade tree and play poker."

"If you pass this bill, Missouri will be denying to its sister states that it is a state of Christians, of fathers and mothers, and of Sunday school children. We will be saying to the other states, 'we've let down the bars—come on over and have a hell of a good time.'"

"As for saying that the bill will help the farmers—wouldn't a farmer look fine riding his plow down the corn field in back of a pair of fine race horses?"

Wisdom spoke briefly, saying he was interested in the bill only as an aid to farmers and horse breeders and that he "knew nothing of gambling." The committee took no action on the bill.

SUNDAY LAW HELD INVALID

Belleville Ordinance Bars Sale of Bread, Meat on Sabbath.

A Belleville city ordinance prohibiting the sale of meat and bread on Sunday was declared unconstitutional yesterday by Police Magistrate Anthony J. Stoeckel, who dismissed Fred J. Niemeier, charged with violating the regulation. The magistrate said he regarded the statute as class legislation, as it draws a distinction between bread and meat and other foods. Counsel for the city announced it would appeal to test the ordinance.

It Is Not Under Control of Board of Children's Guardians.

The Post-Dispatch on Feb. 1, in publishing the grand jury report which criticized conditions at the House of Detention, erroneously stated that the institution was controlled by the Board of Children's Guardians. The House of Detention is under the jurisdiction of the Circuit Judge assigned to the Juvenile Court. The grand jury, in its report, urged that control be transferred to the Department of Public Welfare.

STATE SALES TAX SUBSTITUTE BILL ORDERED DRAWN

House Committee, After Hearing Protests Against Rise, Decides on Levy of Less Than 1 Per Cent.

WILL KILL SIX PENDING MEASURES

Attention Is to Keep Amount Low but Broaden the Base From Which
It Is to Be Collected.

By BOYD F. CARROLL, Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 14.—Gov. Park's two bills to double the state sales tax of one-half of 1 per cent will be discarded and a substitute bill which likely will propose a rate of less than 1 per cent will be drafted to replace the Governor's bills and other measures to increase the tax.

The House Committee on Ways and Means completed the public hearings on proposed sales tax increases last night. A subcommittee to draft a substitute bill was appointed by Representative Leo T. Daniel of Reynolds County, chairman of the committee. The subcommittee includes Daniel, chairman, and Representatives John D. Taylor of Chariton County and Dick E. Day of Ray County, all Democrats, and Fred M. Harrison, Republican, of Daviess County.

Well members of the main committee have withheld comment, it is understood that the substitute bill will propose a rate of less than 1 per cent—possibly the present rate of one-half of 1 per cent—on a broader tax base than that fixed in the present law. The substitute bill probably will not be sent for submission to the main committee until the committee meets again next Wednesday.

Six Bills to Be Killed.
Under the present plan, only the substitute bill will be reported to the House, and the six bills now pending in the committee will be killed. By amendment, the House may make any change in the substitute after it reaches the floor.

Appointment of the subcommittee followed hearings yesterday afternoon and last night before the committee, in which a mass protest against any change in the present law was submitted by a delegation of nearly 500 representatives of merchants and other business interests in their cities, towns, villages and rural sections of Missouri.

Advocates of proposed increases in the tax, ranging up to a rate of 2 per cent, also were heard by the committee last night.

Opponents to any increase, including about 350 persons from St. Louis and about 250 from Kansas City, came here by special trains, buses and automobiles, to offer a mass demonstration which has not been exceeded in many years, except in 1931 when a delegation of residents of St. Louis County estimated at about 3000, came to the capital to present a demand to which the Legislature responded by repeal of the Ralph Wrenn district law.

Terms of Governor's Bills.
Both of the Governor's bills would accomplish the same purpose, increasing the rate to 1 per cent and extending the life of the tax, which would expire on Dec. 31, 1935, under the present law, for two years.

Under the first bill, by different methods, the first bill would effect the changes by amending the present law. The second, introduced later and designed to avoid possible technicalities, would effect the changes by repealing the present law and re-enacting it.

The four other pending sales tax bills propose rates varying from that of the present law with the addition of a new tax of one-quarter of one per cent on all wholesale sales up to a rate of five per cent.

The subcommittee which will draft the substitute has not determined so far to what extent it will propose broadening of the tax base.

Under the present law, passed by the 1933-34 special session, as an emergency revenue measure, a tax of one-half of one per cent is levied on all retail sales of tangible personal property.

FIRM MADE 35 PCT. PROFIT IN BUILDING TWO WARSHIPS

Head of Newport News Co. Tells Senators It
Netted $5,601,000 When It Expected
Only $1,800,000.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Testimony that his company had made $5,601,851 or 35 per cent profit in 1927 on two cruisers when it expected only $1,800,000 was given the Senate Munitions Committee today by Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co.

At the same time, he told the committee that, although the cost of cruisers had increased several million dollars in the past six years, they actually would cost the Government less in the long run because there was a great deal more material in them which made them more valuable.

Net and Contract Cost.
The contract price for the two cruisers with the Government was $20,960,000 and the net cost was $15,753,457, the witness said. "I was amazed we made so much," the shipbuilder declared.

The committee immediately introduced evidence that the company recently had bid $10,500,000 and $11,000,000 on cruisers. Ferguson insisted the net cost was greater because of increased cost of design and equipment and therefore the profit less.

"The cost to the Government, considering the price," Ferguson said, "is much less under present contracts."

Profit Explanation.
Commenting on the profit on the two ships—the Houston and Augusta—contracted for in 1927 and finished in 1930, Ferguson said: "We estimate profit usually at 6 per cent and, although we made 35 per cent, we have done with that what we do with other customers, they get back the benefit in future bids."

A conflict between the shipyards and the Navy Department in 1927 over whether three cruisers should be built in private yards or Government yards was revealed by Ferguson.

"Were you alone or acting with the other companies in trying to have these jobs let to private yards," Stephen Raushenbush, committee counsel, asked. "We were all together," the builder replied. "It was the same old fight between the private shipyards and the Navy."

"You had a common interest and had many conferences in accomplishing that object," Raushenbush asked. "Not many," Ferguson said.

Ferguson denied there was any talk of arranging bids so as to divide the business.

About Morro Castle.
Ferguson, builder of the Morro Castle, said the craft was constructed according to the "safety at sea" provisions and he could not "understand" how it burned and sank.

"If this country had been a party to the safety at sea convention which it had prevented the disaster," Senator Clark (Dem.), Missouri, asked. "No, sir," Ferguson replied. "She was built in accordance with the terms of that convention."

He said the Mohawk was not built under that convention, having been put up in 1924. The Morro Castle was contracted for in 1928, previous committee evidence had indicated, and company executives said it was finished in August of 1930.

"If the Mohawk had been bound by the second convention (safety at sea) of 1929," Ferguson said, "it would not have been in foreign trade."

Denial of Collusion.
Ferguson repeatedly denied there was any collusion among the builders, and when evidence was introduced that in the 1928 to 1930 period his company and the two others of the "big three" had received almost equal amounts of contracts from private lines and the Shipping Board, he said: "I did not know that was the case until it was brought out today."

The Newport News Co. received $33,075,000 in contracts, New York Shipbuilding Corporation $31,700,000 and the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Co. $33,177,000, the evidence showed.

"How did they manage to have this business divided so evenly?" Raushenbush asked.

Ferguson presented evidence that his company had bid closely on the business, figuring its profits at times at under 2 per cent.

Returning to Ferguson's assertion the cost of labor and material on ships had increased in recent years because of improved designs, Senator Bone (Dem.), Washington, asked if in the 1927-29 period principally under discussion there had been any increase in wages. "No," Ferguson replied, adding that wages were not increased during the "boom period" and correspondingly were not cut during the depression period until 1933.

At the conclusion of the day's session, the Newport News Co. officers were dismissed until Monday, and A. P. Homer, Washington marine architect, was announced as tomorrow's witness.

ALDERMEN TO GET FACTS ON SUPPLY OF NATURAL GAS

Member of Texas State
Planning Board to Tell of Vast Amount Available to City.

Facts about the extent of the supply of natural gas in the Texas fields and the efforts of producers to find markets in St. Louis and other cities for vast quantities now wasting will be given the Gas Committee of the Board of Aldermen at its next session, probably next week.

The committee yesterday began an inquiry into possibilities of bringing natural gas here in large quantities at low price.

From City Counselor Hay the committee heard a declaration that the city administration is committed to a solution of the smoke problem and to a reduction of gas rates for domestic purposes "to a proper level."

It received an engineering report in which it was charged that the Laclede Gas Light Co. had deliberately prevented the serving of straight natural gas in St. Louis although existing pipe lines could supply an adequate quantity. The report suggested municipal ownership as a possible remedy.

E. P. Gosling, president of the Laclede company, who attended yesterday's hearing, informed reporters that he had conferred with Edwin H. Kifer, a member of the State Planning Board of Texas, on the matter of getting more natural gas for St. Louis. He was told by Kifer that about two billion cubic feet of gas a day is being blown into the air in Texas after it is stripped of its gasoline content, and that producers are eager to find markets for it. Kifer has gone to Washington to confer with administration officials on a proposal that was recently placed before Public Works Administrator Charles E. Smith, who is in charge of a $50,000,000 loan and grant of $50,000,000 to build additional pipe lines.

Hay expects that Kifer will be here next week to appear before the committee.

The engineering report was presented by Robert M. Smith, a member of C. E. Smith & Co., consulting engineers for the city, who was the only witness yesterday. He called attention to certain parts of his 60-page report, copies of which were given the committee members.

One of his conclusions was that straight natural gas would mean lower rates.

Comparison of Rates.
Average monthly gas bills in St. Louis, where a mixture of natural and manufactured gas is used, were shown to be 52 per cent higher than in Kansas City, where straight natural gas is supplied, and considerably higher than in 14 other Missouri cities having straight natural gas.

The report described the principal natural gas fields, saying St. Louis is at their doorway, and pointed out that one major pipe line already brings natural gas here and another crosses the State 65 miles north of St. Louis. These lines have a capacity of 100,000,000 cubic feet each.

Alderman Michael Scott is chairman of the committee. Other members present yesterday were Aldermen Hastey, Slay and Wetzel.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment, on recommendation of Hay, today appropriated $500 for expenses of the committee.

NEBRASKA UTILITY MEASURES
Senate Decides Cities Can't Pledge
Plants' Future Earnings.
INCOLN, Neb., Feb. 14.—The State Senate voted yesterday, 20 to 8, against a measure to permit cities to build electric light plants on transmission lines by pledging future earnings.

The Senate then passed, 28 to 1, a bill which forbids cities to build electric light plants which cost more than the bonds levied for that purpose. The latter measure was sent to the House.

GERMANY IS WILLING TO DISCUSS AIR PACT

Replies to Anglo-French Proposal for Peace in Western Europe.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, Feb. 14.—Germany agreed to discuss the Franco-British proposal of a Western European air pact in a note given jointly to the Ambassadors of Great Britain and France today.

A Foreign Office spokesman said that the Anglo-French suggestion for a pact of non-interference in Austria and for an Eastern European securities treaty was dismissed with a few lines.

It was understood that the suggestion of Germany's return to the League of Nations was not mentioned by the German Government.

The text of the short note, which hits the high spots of the London accord without entering into detail, is to be made public Saturday.

The British and French governments, in a conference two weeks ago in London, and which was attended by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald and Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, of Great Britain and Premier Pierre-Etienne Flandin and Pierre Laval, Foreign Minister, of France, agreed to a new peace plan for Western Europe.

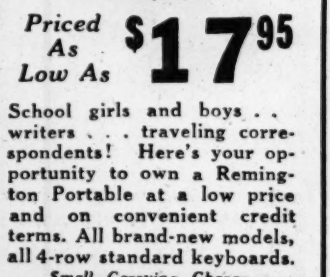

The plan, in brief, envisioned an acknowledgement of German armament equality provided Germany returns to the League of Nations and the establishment of a military aviation alliance among Great Britain, France, Germany, Belgium and Italy.

Indications from Berlin have been that Germany would not accept these proposals in full but would make counter-proposals.

EX-KING ALI OF HEDJAZ DIES AN EXILE IN BAGHDAD

Was Forced to Relinquish Throne by the Saudi Victim of Heart Disease.

BAGHDAD, Iraq, Feb. 14.—Former King Ali of Hedjaz died this morning of heart disease, following an attack Tuesday night. In poor health for several months, he had been unconscious most of the time since yesterday. The former monarch was 55 years old.

All died in the palace of his nephew, King Ghazi, who succeeded his father, King Feisal, on his death in 1933. His brother, Emir Abdullah, of Transjordan, was at his bedside. The funeral, it was announced, will be held this afternoon.

Former King Ali was the son of the late Hussein, former Sheriff of Mecca and King of the Hedjaz. Succeeding his father as head of the little Arabian kingdom following the latter's overthrow by Ibn Saud, Emir of the Nejd in 1924, Ali's own occupancy of the throne was soon terminated.

With King Hussein disposed of, an exile to Cyprus, Ibn Saud and his Wahabi followers hastened to force the abdication of his son. Seeking refuge behind the walls of Jeddah, King Ali resisted until Dec. 19, 1925, when military reverses forced him to relinquish his throne. Three weeks later Ibn Saud proclaimed King of the Hedjaz and Sultan of Nejd in Mecca, capital of the state. All thereupon sought asylum with his brother, King Feisal of Iraq, at Baghdad.

CUBAN BOMB ROCKS AMERICAN CONSULATE

Explosive Thrown Against Door of Bank Building Housing
U. S. Office in Santiago.

By the Associated Press.
SANTIAGO, Cuba, Feb. 14.—The United States Consulate, on the second floor of the Bank of Nova Scotia building, was damaged by the explosion of a large bomb last night. The bomb was set off in a doorway of the building. The explosion started a panic downtown. Troops were called to clear the streets.

Victor Quintana, a Spaniard, was wounded by a bomb fragment which struck him in the mouth. Authorities believed the bomb was meant for the Consulate, but the bank suffered heavier damage than the Consulate. They said they had an automobile license number given to them as the one on the automobile from which the bomb was thrown.

There was sharp difference of opinion over whether the committee vote of 12 to 11 against the amendment of Senator Adams (Dem.), Colorado, to cut the appropriation to $2,880,000,000 was an index to Senate sentiment.

SENATE LEADERS EXPECT TO PASS JOB BILL IN WEEK

President's $4,880,000,000
Program Reaches Floor
With Principal Provisions
Intact.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 14.—Administration leaders, reporting the works-relief bill to the floor of the Senate today, said they hoped to pass the measure within a week. It was finally approved yesterday by the Appropriations Committee with several amendments, most of them considered to be of a minor nature.

Critics of President Roosevelt's employment program sought reinforcements in the Senate to continue their fight. The administration forces prepared to resist renewed demands for reduction of the $4,880,000,000 fund to $2,880,000,000; to maintain intact the broad discretionary powers which the bill would confer on the President, and to prevent the "prevailing wage" idea from winning over "security wages."

Republican Senators are to be called to a party conference to decide what their attitude shall be. Senator McNary, the Republican leader, said he would confer with minority members of the Appropriations Committee before issuing the call.

Steiner Attacks Bill.
Senator Steiner (Rep.), Oregon, on the Senate floor today, termed the bill "the most radical perversion of the American concept of government ever to come to my personal attention." Steiner opened his assault shortly after Chairman Glass formally reported the measure from the Appropriations Committee.

As passed by the House, he said, the huge fund could be expended in "every way the fancy may conceive" and could even be spent or "used" for gifts or loans by a "person unknown" to be named by the President.

"If the Supreme Court doesn't hold this bill invalid and unconstitutional," Steiner said, "the whole character of government, as far as the expenditure of this five billion dollars is concerned, will be determined by this unknown person under a plan not even outlined in detail in the message of the President."

There was sharp difference of opinion over whether the committee vote of 12 to 11 against the amendment of Senator Adams (Dem.), Colorado, to cut the appropriation to $2,880,000,000 was an index to Senate sentiment.

Adams said he would renew his proposal on the ground that such large appropriations cannot be

MERRY GO ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14. THE rulers of the New York Stock Exchange are in for another punning, this time from Representative Sam Rayburn, the man who pushed through the Stock Exchange Control Act.

Come is the obstructive tactics being used by Richard Whitney, the self-proclaimed head of the New York Stock Exchange. He and his fellow officers have sought to prevent drastic reform of the election system. By so doing they can short-cut many of the reform advocated by the Securities Exchange Commission.

In a recent report to Congress, it strongly recommended sweeping reform of the election system where the New York Exchange remains in control of the Whitney clique. Whereupon the clique rushed into print with a ballyhoo announcement of a plan for a voluntary reorganization.

But when Rayburn and SEC experts examined this much-vaunted program they discovered that it proposed no fundamental changes. Anxious by this maneuver, Rayburn is preparing an attack which will force New York Exchange members before Congress and call for the enactment of compulsory reform legislation if the Exchange does not clean its own house.

Precious Secrets.

During the weeks that their hissing-making decision on the gold cases was being awaited, members of the Supreme Court were subjected to good-natured kidding regarding the mysterious secret locked in their pockets.

Visiting at the home of a friend one day, ruggedly-built Justice Harlan Stone was enthusiastic about the justices' egg-nog.

"This is marvelous," he told her. "I've never tasted egg-nog so delicious."

The lady was flattered, explained that she prepared it from a "secret" formula of her own.

"I'll tell you what I'll do," she replied. "I'll tell you my secret if you'll tell me yours."

The gold secret and the egg-nog secret were both kept.

Tariff Crack-Down.

Behind Cordell Hull's crack-down on enemies of his Brazilian reciprocity treaty was the fact that opponents of his tariff policy have been growing like weeds on Capitol Hill.

Hull had to strike hard and immediately or see his dream of low tariff trade shrivel into a greasy spot.

All the old log-rolling groups which once raised tariff rates to the monumental peak of the Smoot-Hawley Act are on the make again. Illinois Congressmen are howling about Hull's proposed treaty with Switzerland which might reduce the tariff on watches. Pennsylvania Congressmen are nervous about Hull's treaty with Belgium which might lower tariffs on cement and shoes. California Congressmen are worried about treaties with Italy and Spain which would lower rates on wines.

Regarding wines, the Federal Alcohol Control Administration already has decided that present tariff rates are exorbitant, that the one thing that could happen to California growers is to reduce tariffs so that the American public could cultivate a taste for good wine.

Regarding glass, the Tariff Commission is Star to Wed Movie Actress.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Feb. 14.—Lester Seaton, professional tennis player and Ruth Moody, movie actress, announced their engagement yesterday. Miss Moody is a niece of Albert H. Wiggin, former head of the Chase National Bank of New York.

ART DIRECTOR ENGAGED FOR MUNICIPAL OPERA

Raymond Sovey, New York Stage Designer, Coming to St. Louis Next Week.

Raymond Sovey, scenic designer, has been engaged as art director of the Municipal Opera for the 1935 season. Lawrence Schwab, producing director, announced today the selection of Sovey as the first of a group of artists and stage members which he is assembling.

Sovey is expected to be in St. Louis next week, to study the Municipal Theater and suggest necessary technical changes. He has designed the settings of some of the most attractive of the Theater Guild's productions in recent years. One of his most recent works was the setting of "Petrified Forest," a current dramatic success in New York. He belongs to the group, including Norman Bel Geddes, Robert Edmond Jones, Cleon Throckmorton and Joe Milner, who have made important contributions to the art of stage decoration.

Realism is the keynote of Sovey's designing. His work in the seasons has included the settings for "Wings Over Europe" and the musical production "Strike Up the Band" and "Hey, Nonny, Nonny." The setting for Jane Cowell's production "Twelfth Night" was his also. Production seen in St. Louis for which Sovey has acted as scenic designer include "Saint Joan," "Strictly Dishonorable," "Green Grow the Lilacs," Al Jolson's "Wonder Bar," "A Month in the Country," and "Counselor at Law."

$19,000 SO FAR PLEDGED FOR SALVATION ARMY FUND

Results of a Little More Than a Day's Work Toward Raising $107,300.

Pledges of a total of $19,058 in the Salvation Army's Service Fund campaign for $107,300 were reported yesterday at a meeting of campaign workers at Hotel Statler. The amount subscribed is the result of slightly more than a day's work for 1500 persons who are soliciting contributions, it is stated.

Ben Weidie, chairman of the school solicitations committee, reported that public school teachers had subscribed $1000, about 10 per cent above the quota. Postmaster Jackson reported contributions of $738 from postal employees, whose quota had been set at $750, and said his committee had additional pledges of $85. Former Mayor Kiel, heading the special gifts committee, reported about 25 per cent of the special gift quota of $35,000 had been raised.

RICH PREHISTORIC ART FIND IN NORTHWEST PART OF SPAIN

Brilliantly Hued Reliefs Ascribed to the Cantabri Discovered in Caves Near Saelices.

By the Associated Press. MADRID, Feb. 14.—A rich find of Cantabrian art dating back to 12,000 years before Christ was found in Northwestern Spain yesterday. The Cantabri were a warlike people who inhabited that part of the peninsula.

Juan Cabre, director of the Ceramio Museum who reported the discovery, said it was "one of the most important of many years."

It consists, he said, of color reliefs of deer, bison, cats and horses in two caves near the town of Saelices, which exhibit the brilliant hues of Cantabrian art. Evidence of an Arab people of the Eleventh Century before Christ also were found near these caves, Cabre said.

"HORRIBLE!" Says MODERN SOCIETY
"ADMIRABLE!" Says THE MODERN DENTIST

You can still be civilized and avoid "PINK TOOTH BRUSH"

IMAGINE such conduct at the dinner table. One such barbaric performance would immediately black-list the offender. And no one could blame modern society for it.

But the modern dentist—your dentist—sees this performance in another light. "Admirable," would be his prompt and clear verdict. "If coarse, raw foods were more in prominence on our modern menus, if all my patients were more primitive and aggressive about exercising their teeth and gums, I'd hear a lot less about that dental warning 'pink tooth brush'—a lot less about a long list of modern dental ills."

For our soft, modern foods do deny our gums work and exercise—do rob them of health and firmness. And "pink tooth brush" is simply the drastic warning that massage and stimulation are needed at once.

NEGLECT OF "PINK TOOTH BRUSH" IS UNSAFE Don't let neglect of "pink tooth brush" cause your teeth to become dingy, your gums tender.

Don't let it open the way for serious gum disorders. Don't let it endanger sound teeth. Follow modern dental teachings—and play safe. Brush your teeth regularly with Ipana Tooth Paste. Then each time you brush your teeth, put a little extra Ipana on your brush or fingertip, and massage it into your gums. Ipana with massage rouses lazy gums, speeds circulation through the gum tissues and helps bring them back to healthy firmness.

Get a tube of Ipana today and try Ipana and massage for a full month. You'll notice the improvement in the brightness of your teeth and the sparkle of your smile. Your gums will be healthier and firmer. And you'll be much safer from "pink tooth brush."

ASKS FOR OUSTING OF OHIO
PENITENTIARY WARDEN
Investigator Recommends to Governor Building of New Prison to Segregate Classes of Convicts.
By the Associated Press
COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 14.—Frazier Reams recommended yesterday to Gov. Davey the permanent removal of Preston E. Thomas as Warden of Ohio Penitentiary and the construction of a new prison. He made the recommendations in a report on his recent investigation of the prison, which resulted in the suspension of Thomas and subsequently in the removal of the post of Warden from the civil service classification.

Five statutory reasons were cited by Reams for the removal of Thomas. He urged a new penitentiary along modern lines to permit a program of segregation to keep separate first offenders, incorrigibles and habitual criminals.
Instances of alleged favoritism to convicts were cited by Reams, who reported that, had there been proper control by the Warden, "not a life need have been lost" in the 1930 Easter Monday fire at the prison, in which 320 convicts perished.

Lumber Leader Says Codes Help.
CHICAGO, Feb. 14.—F. W. Wein-el, Columbia, Ill., president of the Illinois Lumber and Material Dealers' Association, told the organization at its annual convention that codes of fair competition had "unquestionably" been of great benefit to their business. J. F. Bryan, Springfield, secretary of the association, asserted that while reports from some points showed the volume of business did not improve greatly, there has been less selling without profit than heretofore.

STATE SALES TAX
SUBSTITUTE BILL
ORDERED DRAWN
The Federal Emergency Relief Administration has notified the Governor that unless Missouri makes provision for raising $12,000,000 as its share of relief service during 1935 no more Federal funds for relief will be apportioned to the State after March 1. The FERA suggested that the State and local communities each raise half of the $12,000,000.
The Governor has taken the position that many of the counties and cities will be unable to raise funds for the purpose and that the State should provide the entire $12,000,000 through the sales tax.
Some sentiment for a sales tax increase up to a rate of 2 per cent has developed in the House. If part of the additional revenue, is allocated back to the counties and municipalities to permit reduction of local taxes.

SENATE LEADERS
EXPECT TO PASS
JOB BILL IN WEEK
made year after year without endangering the national credit. He said he expected strong support, but administration leaders predicted his amendment would be defeated by a larger margin than in the committee.
"Prevailing Wage."
Most Senators agreed Senator McCarran (Dem.), Nevada, would have a better chance for his amendment to require the Government to pay wages prevailing in private industries instead of the "security" wage of around $50 a month planned by the administration. This amendment first was approved by the committee, 12 to 8. It was then reconsidered, 14 to 8. By a like vote a substitute offered by Senator Russell (Dem.), Georgia, was approved yesterday. This says the President may fix different wage rates for various types of work. If he finds such pay is threatening to disrupt the wage structure prevailing in the locality, he must increase it. President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, called on "friends of labor" to oppose this compromise.
Under one committee amendment, no person could get direct relief unless he showed he was in actual need, that he had not left within 60 days a job paying $50 or more a month, and that he had tried in vain to find work.
Another amendment provides that all rivers and harbors, public buildings, roads, and reclamation projects shall be undertaken under the direction of departments concerned with such work.

The Government would be required to take full advantage of private facilities in carrying forward the work program.
Other changes made by the committee:
Eliminated authority for the President to relieve "economic maladjustments."
Inserted a provision that only Federal and non-Federal projects "of a type such as is or may be authorized by law" shall be undertaken under the bill.
Eliminated presidential authority to disburse the money without regard to laws which permit the Comptroller-General to check Federal expenditures.
Restricted use of money to continental United States, territories and possessions, and barred the Philippine Islands from participation.
Struck out a provision permitting employment of workers without regard to the civil service classification act of 1923.
Eliminated authority for the President to establish new governmental agencies, consolidate, redistribute, abolish or transfer functions and duties of emergency Government agencies.
Inserted an amendment by Senator Russell authorizing loans for purchase of farm lands to tenants, share croppers and farm laborers.
Revised the penalty provision to provide that a violation of a rule or regulation issued by the President may be fined $1000 instead of $5000. A fraud provision was inserted, imposing a penalty of $2000 fine and two years imprisonment for violators.

But it doesn't take a barrel of money to buy it!
Old Quaker is certainly an old brand, but how it's making new friends! And why wouldn't it! It's as mellow a bit of deliciousness as ever rolled down your throat. Now Science Explains Why So Many People Past 40

Feel That They're Slipping—Losing Their "Grip" on Things

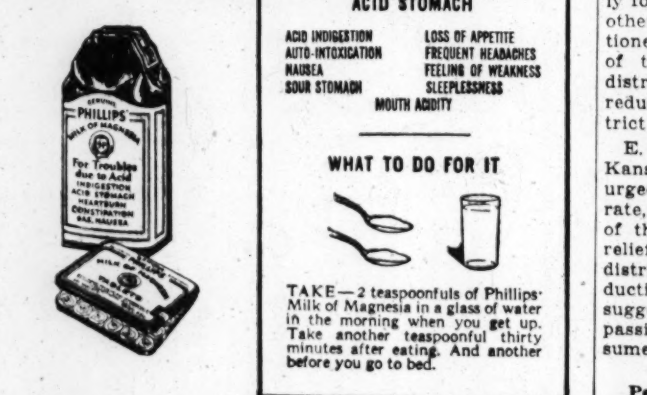

It's Often Nothing More Serious Than a Touch of "Acid Stomach"
HOW TO RELIEVE IT

About forty, many people begin to look back on life. They notice they've lost "snap." Worry. Think they're "growing old."
They have headaches oftener. Feel tired and low a lot. Are subject to stomach upsets... nausea.
Well, scientists say it may not be so bad as it looks. That the real cause, in a great percentage of cases, is a tendency to an acid condition of the stomach. A condition that follows years, perhaps, of faulty diet. And that's very easy to relieve.

Do This
The thing to do, according to doctors, is to neutralize the excess stomach acidity. Which is very simple to do.

When you have one of these acid stomach upsets, all you do is take Phillips' Milk of Magnesia after meals. And another time before you go to bed. Chances are, you will feel fewer headaches. Most of the pep and energy you think you've lost will come back. It's really remarkable.

Convenient New Phillips' Tablets
Take either the familiar liquid "PHILLIPS'" or the new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets—which you can carry anywhere. They're only 25c a big box, at all druggists! Also large family size, 200 tablets $1.00. Try them.

PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Members of the House Ways and Means Committee who favor having the rate to less than 1 per cent believe, it is learned, that broadening of the tax base, and more strict enforcement of the law, will provide sufficient funds during the 1935-1936 biennial period to meet the requirements for unemployment relief.
The sales tax produced about $4,250,000 during 1934, the first year it was in effect. Due to limited appropriations the State Auditor, who administered the act, had no facilities in 1934 for running down evasions. It has been estimated that about 35 per cent of those subject to the tax have been paying it.

Charles E. Williams' Argument.
Charles E. Williams of St. Louis, representing the Missouri Retailers' Association, presented the principal argument for opponents of the tax increase at the hearing yesterday afternoon. Williams declared the present tax was not a consumers' tax, but a tax on the privileges of doing business in Missouri, and that it was being paid by the merchants. He said it could not be passed on to the consumers and that the proposed increases were exorbitant.

He said that in the last few months, although business was reported improving, there had been a decrease in the tax collections. He pointed out that the tax was being paid by only about 65 per cent of those subject to the tax, and that those who were paying it should not be penalized under the circumstances through an increase in the rate when additional State revenue was needed.

Fred M. Lee of Kansas City, president of the Missouri Retailers' Association, protested against any increase in the tax rate or any extension of the tax beyond Dec. 31, 1935. He said merchants could not pass the tax on to their customers and that they now were paying the tax out of capital.

Prof. Joseph M. Klamon of Washington University, St. Louis, declared the sales tax was an "up-side-down income tax" and placed a heavy burden on wage earners and others least able to pay additional taxes. He said a sales tax increase would result in higher prices for necessities and a reduction in living standards.

Others who opposed the proposed increase were Walter Matthews of St. Louis, representing the Retail Florists of Missouri; Earl E. Turner, representing merchants of Springfield; Arthur Werremeyer, president of the Independent Retailers' Council of Greater St. Louis; George G. Geroner, Retail Grocers Association of Kansas City, and J. C. Engle, representing merchants in St. Joseph.

Arguments of Proponents.
Arguments of proponents of the proposed tax increases were presented in two previous hearings before the committee. At these hearings it was urged the proposed increases would provide adequate State funds for relief, the public school and would permit reduction of local tax rates.

Dr. Roscoe V. Cramer of Kansas City, chairman of the Commission on Revenue of the Taxpayers' Association, who appeared before the committee last night, advocated a 2 per cent sales tax proposed in a bill by Representative E. E. Montgomery of Jackson County. It has been estimated that the rate would produce $20,000,000 a year. Under provisions of the bill $6,000,000 would be set aside annually for unemployment relief, and the other $14,000,000 would be distributed to the public school districts of the State, conditional on the districts making a corresponding reduction in the local school district taxes.

E. A. Sandler, secretary of the Kansas City Real Estate Board, urged adoption of the 2 per cent rate, conditional on apportionment of the proceeds, after payment of relief requirements, to the school districts, with a corresponding reduction in local school taxes. He suggested provision be made for passing on of the tax to the consumer by merchants.

Permission for Art Museums.
JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 13.—A bill to allow cities of the second class (Springfield and Joplin) to vote a tax for an art museum was introduced today by Senators A. E. Barbour Jr., Springfield, and Allen McReynolds, Carthage.

tempted robbery in a warrant issued at Clayton yesterday.
Piskulic, following his arrest, was identified by Constable Rudy Baumer of St. Ferdinand Township as one of the two men he saw fleeing from the bank in an automobile after the holdup attempt. Two other persons also have identified the man as a participant, Sheriff Deuser said. Five other men have been convicted in the case, four receiving two-year terms and one a three-year term. Three of them named Piskulic as a participant, officers said.
The holdup was frustrated when bank employees, protected by bullet-proof cases, fired on the robbers, who fled and were captured within 24 hours.

Copper Firm.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Feb. 14.—The vic torious Phelps-Dodge Corporation took control of the United Verde
Copper Co. following a short fight at a session of United Verde stock holders last night.

The struggle for control was staged between Phelps-Dodge and American Smelting & Refining Co. during the first part of the stockholders' session, but later the American Smelting withdrew and left Phelps-Dodge alone in the field.

Four new United Verde directors were elected, all important figures in Phelps-Dodge. The new set placed Louis S. Cates, president of Phelps-Dodge, as president of United. Cleveland E. Dodge was elected

The action culminated more than a week's negotiations by Phoebe Dodge for control of United. The last week it was reported it purchased from the heirs of late W. A. Clark Sr., a sizeable block of stock in the company lacking voting control.

DRIVERS' LICENSE BILL BACKERS MAKE PLEAS

Circuit Attorney Miller at Jefferson City Argues for Inclusion of Examination Feature.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 14.—Circuit Attorney Franklin Miller of St. Louis appeared before the Senate Roads and Highways Committee yesterday to urge approval of an automobile drivers' license bill and to ask that any such bill contain a provision requiring examination of applicants before a license is issued.

Miller is the author of a bill introduced in the Senate by Senator McMillan Lewis, with the approval of Mayor Dickmann's Traffic Commission. It provides for examination. A bill has already passed the House and now is before the Senate Committee which does not have that feature.

"An examination is the big thing in a drivers' license bill," Miller said. "Without it, we would be permitting an incompetent driver to go on the street with a license. Sheriffs and policemen would be given big latitude in giving an examination, and they could make it simple and brief for any person already accustomed to driving."

The Traffic Commission bill also provides for suspension of a license for violation of city ordinances. Miller said this was added "at the insistence of our Police Judges, who found that there would otherwise be too many loopholes for reckless drivers." The House bill contains no such provision.

Others who spoke for a drivers' license bill were Rayburn Hoffman and Edmund Kaiser of the St. Louis Safety Council, and F. C. Lynch of Kansas City, representing the American Legion and the Kansas City Safety Council.

ing the preceding days?" "Well, a lot of our forefathers were conspicuous with their firearms during the American Revolution—and that is what is happening in Louisiana. Good folks sometimes get worked up about things."

During the Baton Rouge investigation George Davis, a former Deputy Sheriff, testified that Parker, also a former deputy, came to him last August with a plan to kill Long by firing their rifles through the window of the Governor's office on a night when Long was expected to appear there. He testified Parker told him they would divide $14,000 if the plot succeeded.

Testimony of Former Deputy. "We were there, outside the window," Davis declared from the witness stand. "I had my Winchester, and Parker had a Remington. But the Senator never showed up."

Long explained to reporters that he never went to the Governor's office on the first floor of the 33-story Capitol building, because of its exposed position. His favorite rendezvous, he said, was on the twenty-fifth floor.

Davis testified that Parker approached him again with another scheme to kill Long at Huey's summer camp at Maringouin, La., by potting him from a surrounding swamp. He added that they got near the camp one night, but turned back when they "got cold feet."

Other witnesses identified Parker as a leader in the armed demonstration at the Baton Rouge courthouse, which resulted in a declaration of martial law and an armed clash at the airport.

Representative Fuller and other members of the Democratic House Patronage Committee were disturbed when informed of the above facts.

"Here's the way it was," Fuller explained. "Sanders was entitled to put one man on the Capitol police force. That is his rightful share of the patronage. He told us he had the ideal man. He described his physique, his education, and his general moral character. He didn't mention that he had been mixed up in this Louisiana mess. To us Parker was just another name. It puts us in a very embarrassing position."

You may put up with furnace tending ... but do you like it?

Maybe you don't complain about the job of furnace tending. You probably figure the job's got to be done and then go ahead and do it. You don't mind doing work around the house when that work is necessary to the comfort of the family. It wouldn't be so bad if all this effort of yours gave you what you were trying to get. But it doesn't. You don't get an even heat. You get a heat that's too warm one minute and not warm enough the next. Everyone knows that changing temperatures, especially indoors, are a common cause of colds and sickness, not to mention discomfort. And even though you wear out yourself and your disposition trying to get a steady, comfortable heat for your family, your house is still too hot or too cold. So you're really doing all this furnace tending to no avail. Yet for an average cost of only 12c a day more than you are now paying you could have gas heat. You'd be free of all furnace tending and your home would be comfortably heated at an even, healthful temperature.

Some Quit. Some Do Not.
Intelligent Bridegroom.By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1935.)

WHEN this was written at 4:30 p. m. yesterday, New York time, reporters outside the Flemington jury room had heard by some mysterious "grapevine," perhaps inaccurate, that the jury stood 11 to 1 for conviction. Editors of morning and evening newspapers were interested to know at what hour the jury would make up its mind.

Had the decision come in the morning, evening newspapers would have got "the circulation." Coming in the late afternoon would give the circulation to morning newspapers. The eager managing editors reminded you of "Tristram Shandy," when the mistress of the house had died, and the serving maid could think or talk of nothing except the particular garment that she hoped to inherit.

Two kinds of men, two kinds of nations, one kind quits in the face of misfortune, the other does NOT.

This nation has lost another dirigible for reasons that will be developed more or less clearly. Will it now quit or build more dirigibles? It DOES, as it SHOULD, build more. It might let civilians try to run them for awhile. Germans have been running the same old dirigibles back and forth across the ocean on business errands regularly for years no disaster.

The French say, literally translated, a misfortune is quickly arrived.

The suggestion of a serious explosion on the Macon, reminds you that the war misfortune could quickly arrive.

Suppose it were suggested, then, that the great dirigible had been wrecked by representatives of one hostile navy, objecting to our dirigible over the Pacific. What then? That would take our minds off the Hauptmann case, and the Duke wedding.

It is utterly unthinkable, but you remember what happened after the Macon sank. "Everything is possible."

A pretty young girl, Miss Doris Duke, well advertised by reporters as "the wealthiest girl in the world," is off for Europe as Mrs. James R. Cromwell, she and Mr. Cromwell having decided to get married suddenly. The young man did not need any "richer girl in the world," having plenty of money of his own. However much they have together, he will know how to help her spend it. An intelligent young man, he has occupied himself with serious matters. Solving the problems of money and high finance are among his simplest accomplishments.

It is a good thing just now to start with a lot of money if you can. There is no knowing how the Government will leave it after it has carried out its duty. Besides, there are all the "state-of-the-world" gentlemen hanging around, and they really mean it.

California is developing a Japanese war scare, not the first. Congressman Dockweiler says 25,000 of 100,000 Japanese in California are capable of going under tomorrow. There should be no panic. The Japanese work hard, are temperate, keep fit, and are always ready to "go under."

Why should there be war? What do we want that Japan has? What have we got that Japan could want?

Would anybody in the United States be foolish enough to provoke Japan on the part of Japan? Would Japan be foolish enough to provoke hostile action on the part of the United States? It could lead to the ultimate destruction of Japan's immediate, important interests.

A baby boy, born with a "strictly pharyngeal" no opening for food to go from the mouth to the stomach, is dead in spite of doctors' efforts. Robert Jenkins of Grand Rapids, Ill., had lived for 371 hours on the vitality that he took with him into the world. When that was gone, he went back to be made over.

There was too much for granted. The perfection of nature's work in the hundreds of millions of us, with the right number of hands, feet, eyes, ears, all the complications of beings "fearfully and wonderfully made." The sad fate of the baby reminds us.

The President wants to spend $4,000,000 largely to take men off the streets, which is demoralizing them and put them at real work. He would give jobs that will give them enough to eat, while looking for the better jobs. He doesn't want to employ to settle down to public charges forever. His

IN MOVIE LAND

By Louella Parsons

LILY PONS, Feb. 13. THE glamorous song bird, Lily Pons, is being given almost the same set-up by RKO that Columbia handed Grace Moore. That is as it should be, for Grace Moore catapulted into fame after just one picture, and Miss Pons may do the same. "Love Song" is the name of Pons' first and it's being written by James Gow and Edmund Worth, the lads who wrote Grace Moore's movie, "One Night of Love."

Lily Pons is being adapted from a story by Elsie Fynn and David Wittes and last fall. If Elsie Fynn is a good story girl who goes through all sorts of adversity to become an opera star. The true life story of any of these successful opera stars would make interesting screen material. Lily Pons arrives in the late spring or early summer for her movie debut. Amusing is the story told of Rita Cansino's entrance into the movies. She is the daughter of the dancing Cansinos. Winfield Sheeher saw her dance and was so delighted with her charm and her resemblance to Dolores del Rio he promptly signed her. Then he waited to meet the glamorous creature who danced so divinely. Imagine his astonishment to see a shy, shrinking little girl of 16 walk into his office without one spark of glamor. "I'd like to see her dance again," said Winnie, and when the little Cansino did dance she was again the enchanting young creature who first intrigued him.

Singer. My compliments to M. H. Hoffman for realizing that Lawrence Gray's voice is an asset on the screen, and also his personality. Hoffman is making "The Old Homestead," that melodrama in which Denham Thompson played for so many years. The Hoffman version is modernized and will have in addition to Lawrence Gray, Mary Carlisle, Dorothy Lee and Lillian Mills.

Romance. Much has been written about Margot Grahame's beauty and her ability as a screen actress, but nothing has been done. RKO has decided that Miss Grahame, who in private life is Mrs. Frank Lester, is worth a try. So they have signed her for the lead in "The Informer," opposite Victor McLaglen. I must say she has built up a nice little interest in herself and we'll be waiting to see her first picture.

Criticism. What happened to Bette Davis in the Academy award? Why was there no mention of George Arliss? I am not quarreling with the Academy's decision, but I do think that Bette Davis' name should have been in the list of nominees. She certainly there was no finer performance all last year than that of George Arliss in "The House of Rothschild." What about Myrna Loy? The whole town seems to be talking about the future to include Miss Davis, Miss Loy and Arliss.

Snapshots. The very young Norman Krasna, who has made such a hit with "Small Miracle," featuring Sylvia Sydney to play and later to the "Troader," Norman's mother, proud of her talented son, with Myrna Loy with Arthur Hornblow, Jessie and Dick Barthelmess, enjoying the play; Leroyne Holmes, one of New York's most highly paid models, looking over Hollywood and stepping out with Bill Riviera; Camille Alda, a guest of Countess di Frasso, in Hollywood trying to locate talent for a spring revue in London; Edmund Lowe, now taking Marian Marsh places; they were glimpsed dining in Victor Hugo's; Max Eastman in Hollywood to confer with Charlie Chaplin, Dorothy Parker, Anita Loos, Mae West and Donald Ogden Stewart relative to writing a book on American humor; Stepin Fetchak leaving for a tour of the South to brush up on his accent.

Gifts Depend On Tastes of The Recipient

Advice on Presents is Difficult, Other Than Need of Real Thought.

By Emily Post.

THIS column is NOT intended to encourage questions asking advice about the presents you may want to buy. On the contrary, I hope the following letter from a sympathetic reader will explain to others why I can't possibly suggest something suitable which ought always to be personal to give a person whom I don't know.

Dear Mrs. Post: Sometime ago I wrote you what I should buy for my best friend on her birthday and you wrote that you could not tell me because you had no way of knowing what she liked, or what amused her. You did, however, enumerate a number of general items which any young woman ought to like.

Your reply left me just where I started, and I was disappointed enough to believe you were heartless. But now I understand what you meant when you suggested that it is not a question of how much money I could manage to spend, but much more the time I would take to try to remember what my friend may have said she liked, or what I may have noticed she admired on another. This same girl, whose birthday prompted me to write you at that time, opened her eyes on Christmas to the real meaning of your advice.

Smothered Beef Tongue Dinner

By Gladys T. Lang

French Potato Soup
Smothered Fresh Beef Tongue
Tomato and Rice Croquettes
Steamed Blueberry Fudding
Hard Sauce.

French Potato Soup. Cook until soft, three or four medium sized potatoes in boiling salted water. Drain and rub through a sieve. There should be two cups of potatoes. Scald one quart of milk with a few outside stalks of celery and one sliced onion. Strain and slowly add to the potatoes. Melt two tablespoons of butter, and in this stir two tablespoons of flour, mixed with a little celery salt, and a half teaspoon of salt and a little freshly ground pepper. Add to the hot soup and cook a few minutes. Add one tablespoon of finely chopped parsley, one tablespoon of chopped green pepper, a dash of paprika and one tablespoon of grated fresh horseradish root.

Smothered Beef Tongue. Simmer a fresh beef tongue for 10 minutes in boiling salted water, then skin and remove the roots. Place tongue in a Dutch oven, dust with flour and brown, adding a little of the drippings, then surround with two cups of diced vegetables, such as carrots, turnips, onions, celery, and add four cups of the water in which the tongue was simmered. Cover, and cook slowly for two hours, or until the tongue is tender. Remove tongue, then strain the vegetables and place them around the tongue, or the tongue may be served with creamed spinach. To the strained gravy stir in one tablespoon of browned flour and let boil for five minutes, seasoning to taste with salt and pepper, one-fourth cup of catsup and a little Worcestershire sauce. Pour half of the gravy over tongue and serve the remainder from gravy dish.

Bright Notes In Feminine Accessories

Coin Motif Is Popular for Spring—Color in Bracelets.

By Sylvia

A SMART girl will look suspiciously like a counterfeiter when she gets herself dolled up with those coin gewgaws that are being exploited for spring. The first ones have arrived in St. Louis and while they're fascinating, others on their way promise to be more startling. One necklace that is made of long, gold colored metal links has a coin pendant. A bracelet which completes the ensemble has a coin charm.

The earrings which look the same whether you are coming or going is the one that has the most style about it. They call them "cow" earrings and they are here in a variety of designs. Some are plain, some are carved, some are gold and some are silver. The effect of this new bit of costume jewelry is that of an old-time earring which was fastened securely by piercing the ear.

The belts which are most impressive are so glittering and decorative they belong to the costume jewelry counter. Metal mesh links are used extensively, or metal tubing in braided or twisted formation. One belt of the tubing has an elastic feature so there is no danger of it not fitting the slenderest waistline. Metal fringe and ball trimmings give a hint that the tassel and cord so popular during the winter has not lost all of their prestige.

When the colors of bracelets and clips go by such expressive names as cloud blue, sunset pink and sunrise yellow, they're certain to appeal. Majolica is the substance that gives them the transparent look, and prompted a designer to become poetic about the pastel shades. Three rows of beads held together with a solid plaque provide a wide bracelet. Clips are of three different sizes.

Whether you are wearing real or artificial violets isn't so important as the fact that you show allegiance to these early spring blossoms. Accessory shops have arguments in favor of the artificial ones, the chief one being the greater variety of colors. Pink violets, very daintily tinted, are the smartest this year, especially when you wear a very large cluster.

A taffeta hat becomes more significant from a fashion viewpoint if you accompany it with a taffeta scarf. Among the cleverly designed ensembles that feature this crisp material is one consisting of black Breton sailor band with white taffeta and a scarf which has its flaring ends displaying the scarf. Navy scarves and chapeau brightened with red also can be arresting.

Some call those novelty leather bags tweed weavers and some call them basket weaves. Which ever you prefer, you'll understand that they were created for use with tailored costumes and look their nicest when you tie them up with shoes which have the same bumpy surface. A wide brassy frame is the striking feature of one squarish model while a rod of tortoise shell pulled through the top attracts you to another.

When you see a pretty scarf peeping out at the neckline of a spring suit, don't be surprised to find it fastened to a blouse. An extra contrast. Navy scarves, if won't be necessary if a blouse is chosen right. A very full double jabot which has fringed ends is typical of the trend. This is a feature of a white crepe blouse which, like many of its companions on the retail counters, opens at the back.

If a blouse fabric is sufficiently decorative, it can form its own individual trimming. One of the most attractive of the new tailored blouses is of Roman striped seersucker. The stripes run crosswise except for a long vertical strip on either side of the front. These stripes, that to resemble exaggerated pockets. Wooden buttons that are half-moon shaped, a pointed turnover collar and a self belt that has a covered buckle are worthy of attention.

SEEN OVER THE WASHINGTON TRANSOM

It is just a coincidence that on Valentine's day we are privileged to toss a bouquet to J. Eberhard Van Dither, one of the most bustling Townsend lobbyists. As you do know, he represents the greeting card, bonbon, cigar, necktie and cut flower industries. As he flits here and there about the legislative halls, button-holing statesmen and treading on the toes of administration spokesmen, Eberhard whispers hoarsely:

"Let's put the Townsend Plan over in a big way, boys, and make Fathers' day and Mothers' day real occasions!"

Item from the Boston Record—According to the testimony of Mrs. Frances Margot, of Glenville ave., Allston, her husband went off to look for a job about a year after their marriage, and has never returned.

Progress Of Contract From Whist

By P. Hal Sims

RT time ago I chanced to look through MacKay's Beauties of the English literature reference book. In 1874, Under W, the whist was listed, meaning 'to keep silence' or 'to keep silent'. You can see the lions opened up by that. A great many philosophical remarks made by MacKay, Funk & Wagoner. Unfortunately a few encyclopedias as that whist was originally a whist. That derivation is absolutely cold. Did the cards off the table or whist one's partner out of? No, whist lacks some whist has. I am unable to by a cursory investigation turned into bridge. There is a legend to account which I hereby present for its worth. It seems that whist lived on opposite sides of the Atlantic. They traveled back and forth to their houses for a friendly visit. There was a small stream, and they on the habit of saying "It's a bridge tonight" or "our side tonight" or "your side tonight". I do not know, but we may assume, for the sake of argument, that they are responsible. terminology of the game. Initially, the high cost of lessons has not changed in the middle of the eighteenth century. In fact, what with the war and all, it has gone up. Edmund Hoyle, a whist expert of his day, charge and receive a guinea; and, as he lived to be a hundred, he laid up a fortune for his descendants. Encyclopaedia, another nineteenth-century volume, devotes three or four pages to a history of whist and its important exponents, but is so far as to give a type of the deductions that may be made from your partner's play. Some of these are just as applicable to day contract as they are

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I AM a mother 26 years old. I have a mother living with me and my husband.
I have been married before and have a child by my first husband. My husband is awfully good to this child and very fond of her.
My mother doesn't like my husband for the reason that in some times we argue. She thinks this unnecessary, but it is between my husband and I; just a temporary misunderstanding. We get over it and make up and forget all about it. Not so my mother; she harps on it.
Now my husband feels he doesn't want her with us any more; he says if she doesn't leave, he will. One reason is, that my mother will not allow my child 9 years old to go with us any place, but tells the child how terrible her stepfather is, and is turning the little girl against him.
If I try to get the child to go with us, she starts crying and says her grandmother will run away if she does.
Now Mrs. Carr, must I let my husband leave or have my mother leave?
I am working and making a good salary every week. My mother thinks I should keep what I make. I am very much in love with my husband but my mother talks against him continually.
HEARTBROKEN.

Surely you can make your mother see that she is hurting, and not helping either you or the child. You can hardly blame your husband for wanting to get away and feeling that he cannot live in such a strain. If neither you nor your husband can convince her that she is not only making you unhappy but building an unhappy future for herself, then find a place for her not too far away; perhaps some friend can help you out by taking her as a boarder. Tell your mother, then, that it will be a change for her, for a while, and that you will expect her to come to see you whenever she likes. Say that you feel you are doing what is best for everyone concerned.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
WOULD it be proper to wear a pink net evening gown, not a formal, at night when most of the women will wear evening gowns.
PERPLEXED.

Net is to be worn this year more than has been the style for some time, and so I think you might wear the pink net gown to the party and feel very comfortable in it.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I only 16 years old and have been out of school two years. Through these two years I've been looking for work, but never have had a chance. Every place you go, you are told you have to be experienced. I think if these managers would give the young people a chance to get some experience, there wouldn't be so many young girls and boys worrying their heads off at home—always being nagged, or walking the streets with their last pair of shoes or clothes on. I think they should try to give the young ones a job just as well as the old ones. Why cannot the married women stay at home and give somebody else a job?
JUST SIXTEEN.

And don't you think it might be a good idea for the young girls and boys to prepare themselves a little better and specialize in some kind of work before they ask for a job? I am sure you can see the manager has his side too. What would be the use of his business if he were constantly employing inexperienced help? Wouldn't he have to go out of business, don't you think? Wouldn't you like to have my list of "Occupations for Women"? Of course this means a little, too. Some of these suggestions would take you off the beaten track, and you might find just the thing you'd like to do. But everything has to be done first—you can study, yourself, and you can enlist the help of your friends.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
Do you happen to know Mr. Henry Ford's personal address? Or could you please give me any information or where I can find it?
A. M. G. G.

I have a feeling that a letter addressed "Mr. Henry Ford, U. S. A." would reach him. But if you happen to be in a hurry you can send him a letter addressed "Detroit, Michigan or Dearborn, Michigan. He has both factory and home in each place.

Importance of Keeping Faith With Oneself

It Is That and Putting Up a Good Fight That Makes Life Worth Living.

By Elsie Robinson

IS life worth living?
Suppose you're poor, sick, discouraged, can't see a chance ahead—is there any use in fighting on?
Leaving out God and heaven, is there any tangible thing in a common man's life that makes the struggle worth while?
Yes, there is! THE MAN HIMSELF.

Mind you, I don't think that's the only reason. Personally, I believe there's a plan behind this life, a future ahead of it, and a God running the whole show. And I think we're all going to get bigger and better breaks when we qualify.
But scratch all that if you wish—I STILL BELIEVE THAT WE OURSELVES ARE WORTH THE SCRAP IT TAKES TO KEEP US GOING.
Doesn't matter who you are or what you've done... what you believe or don't believe. In you, yourself, just as you stand, there's enough to make life worth the living, enough of a Plan to justify respect, enough of a God to justify faith, enough of all that's true and brave and beautiful to justify a whole of a scrap to keep it going. In the darkest days, when I hated everyone, everything, I used to turn to certain words in an old book. The man who wrote them was near to death. He had had an amazing life. He had known the extremes of power, wealth and popularity. Then of his own will he had chosen poverty and persecution. He had been cast out, tortured, humiliated, broken by every device that could rack a man mentally or physically. Now the end was near.

How did he feel about it, now that life was almost over and he could tell his real feelings even to himself? Was he sorry—or glad? Suppose he'd guessed wrong, and there was no glory waiting—was there anything in the long record that would still make it worth while? There was! He was old and weak, but all the triumph of fiery youth ran in his voice as he cried—
"I HAVE FOUGHT A GOOD FIGHT... I HAVE FINISHED MY COURSE... I HAVE KEPT THE FAITH!"

An old man—who was to come down through the centuries as a great saint. But in that instant he was not thinking of Paul the saint. He was thinking, rather, of reckless, hot-blooded Saul of Tarsus—summing up his painful and perplexing personal life—wondering, as you and I wonder, if the gains had been worth the pains. And he knew they had! No matter what came, or didn't come, he died triumphant—for he'd played fair with himself.

"I HAVE FOUGHT A GOOD FIGHT... I HAVE FINISHED MY COURSE... I HAVE KEPT THE FAITH!"
Leaving God out of it (though he didn't) he had fought a good fight BY HIMSELF. He had finished the course FOR HIMSELF. These things he had done to satisfy his own self-respect. God or no God, he'd have been terribly ashamed if he hadn't done them. God or no God, he was passionately proud because he had.

Heaven afterwards? Maybe so. Maybe not. But even if a man only saw things through in order to stay square with himself, that alone was cause enough for a reward enough! "I HAVE FOUGHT A GOOD FIGHT... I HAVE KEPT THE FAITH!"
If each night I can say that, the day, for me, has been worth while. If at the end of the day I know that, nothing else will matter.

And if that isn't a big enough incentive to keep you going, stranger, then a thousand creeds wouldn't save you. For if you won't go straight to keep square with yourself, you're mighty little use to either God or the Devil.
(Copyright, 1935.)

of Indiana, during the cold winter months, every night at 9 there came a rattle, rattle over the ceiling, beneath the roof. It was just as if a chain dragging along. Soon after that there was the sound of scratching all the way down the chimney. Now, if superstition had been my fancy, I would have become pale and trembling and swooned away; but my husband and I discussed the investment of a 10c rat trap and when it was secured and nicely baited with a choice morsel of American cheese and all set in the basement; there was nothing more to do but wait. The intruder, evidently, having seen others of his species tricked by the contraption, wisely stayed away. So, husband and I looked the situation over carefully and found a hole under the house just big enough for a rat. Some glass was broken up into small pieces, pushed into the hole and from then on the funny noises ceased.

Young Men Study Domestic Science While the Fem- inine Students Specialize in Man- ual Training in This School.

By Marguerite Martyn

JEFFERSON CITY, Feb. 13. GIRLS learning to repair plumbing, vacuum sweepers, washing machines and all other electrical appliances—learning the use of all the tools in a carpenter's kit and all the processes and materials of house building, furniture, electric and sanitary construction.

Boys learning to cook, wash dishes, set the table, serve, preside as hosts, plan well balanced meals, keep their clothes in order, go to market, analyze fabrics, advertising practices and consumer values.

Reversing the usual order of things? Revolutionary, you say. Men and women usurping each other's traditional domestic duties, assuming each other's jobs? What is the world coming to? you may ask in alarm.

The answer is, No. Or why not? Or, wherein is there anything upsetting? Haven't women always been left at home to struggle with household equipment that gets out of order, make emergency repairs pending the arrival of expert electrician, plumber, carpenter or amateur handy man? Haven't women always been handy men, their willingness seldom in question, their ingenuity and resourcefulness often surprising, their lack of trained mechanical skill, indeed, their only handicap? And haven't men always come home to sniff suspiciously at the ingredients of a good hash or salad, why at the whys and wherefores of table etiquette, why household supplies cost what they do and why they wear out—all their complaints and misunderstandings of how the domestic wheels go round one of the causes with the 50 per cent of their earnings their wives are entrusted with spending due to their ignorance of the bare fundamentals of household economics?

Then why shouldn't women be trained in mechanics and men be trained in domestic science? It won't lead to greater independence, one sex of the other, but to greater co-operation, less domestic friction, lowering of the causes of divorce. On this theory two distinctly new courses, revolutionary if you will, City Senior High School, Junior College, is called, for the first time in this State, although the plan did not originate here. Denver, Los Angeles, Tulsa and possibly other public school systems have courses in domestic science mechanics for boys and applied household mechanics for girls.

Here in the State capital, beginning modestly last September, two classes were limited to the enrollment of 20 students each to be drawn from the more mature, serious-minded senior grades. At first there was a good deal of scoffing and kidding when regular boys of the rough-neck persuasion (no assiduous would have dared enroll) off their sweaters, donned white aprons and lined up at the ranges, kitchen tables and sinks and the sewing tables of Miss Lou Dillon's domestic science class rooms. And the girls invading the manual training shop, though welcomed by the young and popular instructor, Mark Brooks, were

The Dangers Of Drinking Bad Liquor

Recent Cases Show Symptoms Much Like Jamaica
Ginger Paralysis.

By
Logan Clendening, M. D.

BACK in the days of prohibition the pressure of some stimulation was so great, that in some parts of the country the citizens took to drinking Jamaica ginger.
About 1890 there was first described an epidemic of paralysis which was linked to the consumption of a number of brands of adulterated or synthetic Jamaica ginger.
The illness was characterized by extreme nausea and prostration the day after the ginger spree. Spree is perhaps an exaggerated term, as the amount of ginger drunk usually had nothing to do with the severity of the symptoms. The nausea and prostration were far greater than from any ordinary alcoholic debauch, and as most of the victims were old toppers who were accustomed to recover from the ordinary effects of excessive ingestion, the symptoms caused a great deal of surprise.
They were gone, however, within the first 48 hours. But within a few days more—usually five, but in some cases extending to 14, "the paralysis" came on. It began usually with cramps in the calves of the legs and later the groins, and these were followed by an inability to raise the feet—foot drop. There was staggering on attempting to walk, and swaying if the patient stood with the eyes closed. Finally the legs (it was usually in the legs, sometimes other parts were involved) were almost completely paralyzed.

Partial recovery usually occurred so that walking, although with some disability, was possible. In a few cases complete recovery was observed. But the rule was for some residual disability to remain.

Fundamentally the paralysis was due to multiple neuritis—a degeneration of the peripheral nerve trunks themselves—conditions which can be brought on by many substances, such as lead, alcohol itself (although the suspicion of impurities is always present), arsenic and diphtheria.

But the small amount of alcoholic ginger which was drunk led to the search for some other ingredient. After many experiments Maurice I. Smith of the United States public health service, announced that a poison known as tri-ortho-cresyl-phosphate was, in his conviction, the cause. And that conclusion has been generally accepted. It is supposed it was included in the synthetic ginger because its taste and smell resembled ginger.

Now, the point is that within the last few weeks there are coming into notice cases which closely resemble the old ginger paralysis. They are related to drinking cheap, unstamped blended, and usually illegal, whiskeys and gins. Three such cases have been personally reported to me, and I have heard from different parts of the country of others. Whether tri-ortho-cresyl-phosphate itself is responsible is doubtful. But in Smith's report it says that there may be other organic compounds unknown to us which do the same thing.
The epidemic is frankly mostly gossip at present. But at least the eventualities are sufficiently serious to suggest the warning that at the present time, with liquor now legal, there is no excuse for patronizing the bootlegger or evader of the law. If you must drink, spend enough to buy good liquor.

PRAYING HANDS OF WILLIAM D'ANDREA - Conformation!
FOR 21 YEARS

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

A UNIQUE BRIDGE—Over the Cimarron River in Western Kansas, is a strange bridge, which is apparently a shallow dry valley. But it really bridges the river, which is 40 feet underneath the surface, and the bridge itself is built on the roof of the underground. Rising in the mountains of Eastern Colorado, the river tumbles down through narrow channels until, near Garden City, Kan., it disappears from view for a distance of 20 miles. Melting snows and spring rains cause the underground river to overflow; which is the only time the bridge crosses any water.

THE SURPRISE OF A GLOBE-TROTTER—If a man 6 feet tall were to walk around the earth on the equator, he would describe a circle, whose radius would be 6 feet longer than the radius of the earth. The circumference of the earth described by his head would therefore exceed the circumference described by his feet by 38 feet, consisting of 2x6x3.1416 (value of pi.) In view of the great dimensions of the earth's diameter, a very surprising result.

TOMORROW, THE HOTEL OF PERPETUAL SUNSHINE.

As Augusta Chapman sat in the big library at Hillhurst she was bathed in a warm, satisfying sense of fruition. All had come about as she had hoped and expected. Her son Reggie, all her own, was here at her side. They had come to hear the reading of the will of the late Mr. Chapman. The day of Reggie's birth it had been no secret that he was to inherit his uncle's millions. Soon she would take off her hat and be at home here at Hillhurst. At last!

The years had been so long since her husband's death. Long and hard! She hadn't been poor, but she had to deny herself and deny Reggie. Nathan had done very little for her, and he could have done so much. It had been bitter, but she had held her tongue, waiting for this day.

Augusta knew that people were coming into the room and taking seats around her, but she didn't see them. Today Reggie became master of Hillhurst and she its mistress. Poor, dear Reggie! Come into his own at last! It had been hard for him, too.

Nathan had put him through college, but had doted out his expense money with a sparing hand. Then he had insisted that Reggie get a job. The heir to the Chapman millions! That had been a mistake, for it was in the office where he worked that he met the Patterson girl. That girl! Augusta thrilled with gratitude to think that Barbara Patterson had been disposed of. She had Nathan to thank for that. How much it had cost him, she would never know. The little nobody! How infatuated Reggie had been!

time, when she was much older, she'd pick out a wife for him. The right sort of girl! Not one who worked in an office and sang in a church choir!

The Patterson girl! Nathan had co-operated splendidly. He had promised to see the girl, have a talk with her, then take steps he deemed necessary. Then that night! Reggie came home and she started the argument as usual. "It's for your own good," she always contended. Reggie had avoided her eyes as though he were ashamed. "Please don't speak of Barbara again, mother. Uncle Nate has taken care of that matter." What a relief that was!

She felt Reggie's arm against hers. Yes, he had come to see it her way. He never mentioned the girl, and he had been so kind and tender, as if trying to thank her for saving him from that adventure. But she gave Nathan his due. He had been a Prince.

LDLY she wondered if Nathan had left her anything. It didn't matter. The details of the will didn't concern her very much. It was all Reggie's, and she would have the management of the estate. Practically! Augusta kept her head bent in a pose of decorous mourning as the room slowly filled. She was scarcely listening when the attorney began to read, "Know all men by these presents..." She was busy planning changes at Hillhurst.

Let's EXPLORE Your MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. Sc.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1. I concluded from a sort of rough test some years ago that most women prefer to be rated as beautiful—at least "good to look at." Why not? Intelligence in a woman—at least enough for practical purposes—is usually taken for granted until proof to the contrary becomes obvious. We do not examine the intelligence of every woman we meet, but we do look at her. Men are attracted first to a woman by her looks. No man in his senses ever fell in love, at sight, with a woman's brains. He may wake up later to regret what he has let himself in for, but beauty—or what he thinks is beauty—is the gate he goes in by.

2. Not a particle. The old notion that somehow the blood carries the heredity from parents to children has been exploded by the discovery that all the heredity is contained in the germ-cells which are set aside at birth, and are not affected to any measurable degree by what happens to the blood or body cells.

3. Prof. F. H. Hankins, sociologist of Smith College, says: "Just as the Nordic skin, unlike that of the Negro, will burn but not tan, so the moron, unlike the gifted child, remains a dullard amidst the most perfect environmental stimuli..." Millions of... children are subject to musical training, but relatively few reveal musical talent. If it were anywhere near true that brilliant men and women could be produced by education we should have millions of them." The fact that only about one child in 200 can be called "gifted" makes a pretty strong case for heredity, although environment is always very important.
